ORU builds, repairs campus

Events Center on schedule

"Progress on the ORU 5.5-million-dollar Special Events Center is on schedule, with November 1972 anticipated as the opening date," confirms Vice-president of Business Affairs Robert Eskridge. "The steel and concrete structure will begin major steel erection next week, with the roof hoped to be completed by this November."

Sixty-five feet high and 350 feet across at the widest point, the center will need no interior supports. An aerial view of the center presently reveals a small oval structure inside the large oval. This small oval is a tennis court which acts as a tennis playing point for huge cables leading from buttresses on the sides which will be put under tension tension when the roof is completed.

Wilbur, Smith, and Associates of Houston, Tex., are now developing plans to handle traffic congestion expected from activities held at the center. The city of Tulsa has recently announced plans to widen Lewis Avenue to four lanes and will pass by the center on the west side.

According to Mr. Eskridge, "The Special Events Center will facilitate parking for 3,000 cars and will provide a way for students to avoid contact with bad weather in going in and out of their cars."

Repairs made for fall term

The maintenance crew at ORU has spent an exceptionally busy summer repairing the campus for the 1971-72 academic year, according to Karl Stottlemyer, head of the department.

Beginning with the power plant, the crew overhauled two turbines involving 45 percent of the university's total energy capacity.

The completely painted and renovated the first five floors of the Women's High Rise, as well as the faculty housing. All floors of the Men's High Rise received minor painting.

A major fencing program was undertaken and two miles of wire fencing have been built along 81st Street and 75th Street. The latter is expected to reduce parking lot traffic and improve security.

A new athletic park, located near the tennis courts, includes a baseball diamond and a soccer field. Considerable earthwork was involved in their construction. When the remainder of the system was added, Sports fans will use concrete bleachers for the time being.

The new campus lighting system is nearly 100 percent complete, and greatly improved lighting will be enjoyed, particularly in the parking lots, Stottlemyer said. The maintenance men have repaired the parking lot where trenches had been dug for the new lighting.

Major sidewalks were repaired and regraded sufficiently for water drainage during rainy weather. Worn cafeteria flooring was also replaced.

Contractors also completed repairs on the ceiling of the Learning Resources Center, which was damaged during a late spring storm of almost tornado proportions.

Chapel plans are underway

Commencement exercises ended on an exceptionally happy note. Dr. John P. Roberts led the graduating seniors, their guests, faculty, staff, and visitors notables to the green field west of the ORU Campus to conduct a ground breaking ceremonies for a new chapel.

Since that day little has been said about the new chapel, except that it is in planning. During a recent interview with President Roberts, he stated that he had nothing to say about the chapel at the present time. "I will have something to say, though. God willing, shortly. But since I have no definite statement I probably should wait a week or two."

The Vice-President of Business Affairs, Robert R. Eskridge, said any statement other than that the chapel is in planning would be a bit premature. Eskridge said no definite deadlines have been set, Frank W. Wallace is architect for the chapel.

Campus Chaplain Bob Stamps said that much extra time is being taken on the planning of the chapel. "When I think about the purpose of the chapel as a place for center for campus worship, commemoration meetings and as a place of private prayer for students.... we have been thinking about the purpose of the chapel as a center for campus worship, commemoration meetings and as a place of private prayer for students..."

President Roberts presents $2,288 gift on telethon

From an offering collected in last Friday's chapel, students, faculty, and staff contributed $2,288.47 to the 1971 Muscular Dystrophy Campaign. President Oral Roberts then flew to the Americana Hotel in New York City to present the check.

Mr. Lewis remarked that he would be willing to visit the ORU campus anytime his personal friend Oral Roberts asked.

Student Senate vacates named; petitions due Friday, Sept. 17

The roof of the Special Events Center is expected to be completed by this November, with opening of the building anticipated November 1972.

Test dates named

The Admission Test for Graduate Study in Business, required by more than 270 graduate schools of business, will be offered on November 6, 1971, and on February 5, April 15, June 24 and August 12 in 1972.

Registration for the ATGS does not constitute application for admission to any business school.

The Bulletin of Information for Candidates can be obtained from the Educational Testing Service, Box 966, Princeton, New Jersey, 08540.

Low school test

The Law School Admission Test, required of candidates for admission to most American law schools, will be given on October 16, December 18, 1971, February 12, April 8, and July 29, 1972. Registration for this test does not constitute application for admission to law school.

Candidates for the test should secure a copy of the Bulletin of Information from the Educational Testing Service, Box 944, Princeton, New Jersey, 08540.

Frost button everywhere

"BUTTTON FROSTU"

'I am a lonely freshman.
I honor ORU.
Because you are an upper-classman,
I'll also honor you.
These words were heard everywhere on campus this week as ORU's largest freshman class -- "but under the pressure of the somehow superior upperclassmen."
This was FROST WEEK AT ORU.

Slave and master were jolted Monday night in a slave's lounge following an orientation dinner for all freshmen where entertainment was provided by "C Love," a Christian folk-rock group. After the dinner and slave auction, each freshman received a beanie, compliments of the sophomore class.

Tuesday, frost week moved into high gear. Freshmen found themselves with sore knees and strong legs (from walking up "all those stairs"!), not to mention the various troubles that the slaves did for their masters.

Tonight "The Awakening" will be putting on a two and one half hour concert featuring Da dy Stearn's original concept "God Come Down." The concert is free, and everyone is welcome to come.

Tomorrow at noon there will be a picnic at the President's Pond, followed by the annual tug-of-war contest between the freshmen class and the upper-classmen.

Wrapping up frost week activities will be a movie tomorrow night sponsored by the sophomore class in which all the masters are urged to treat their slaves.

Frosh rules roost

by Ruth Figi

God answered Carol Jacobs' prayer, and frost rules roosted in 532 different ways.

"The night we heard President Roberts speak at orientation, remembered how he had to look at another person and then pray about each other's needs. He has always said to 'Give, Givel, which doesn't necessarily mean money, but I thought, 'Well, what do I give'? Sometimes you feel as if you don't give anything, so I asked this person to pray.
I said, 'I would like for God to show me how I can give.'"

How did God answer Carol's prayer? She arrived at school on Friday, September 26, morning.

Dean of Women Helen Inbody, called her in and made this proposal, "Would you like to have a job?"

On Tuesday, Carol had another appointment with the Dean. "When I walked in she said, "If you can wear your skirts long enough, and think you can handle it, you've got it'"

What did Carol get? The position as Head Resident Counselor for the women's dorm, in charge of 532 girls from 4:30 p.m. till 8:30 a.m. (Time for lots of giving!) Carol is a former secretary from Houston, Tex., and now a full-time student carrying 14 1/2 hours. Her interests are in theology and psychology. She would like to possibly enter counseling. My job here is counseling, although I'll be available for what you want to talk to me. Dean Inbody is the Counselor, I want to be a friend to each girl.

This is a ministry in itself!

Being available in case of emergency is Carol's main responsibility. She works five nights a week, 5-45:00 p.m. and 4:30 p.m.

She's also responsible for every girl being in after curfew. You don't get all up in the air if there is an emergency, you just handle it the best you can. One night they couldn't locate a girl, but finally found her in the TV lounge. She didn't even hear the announcement.

Dorm life sometimes can get hectic, but Carol doesn't expect it to be this year. We really have some excellent R.C.'s. The girls go to them first if they are locked out of their rooms, or have a problem. Also, this year the R.C.'s can give late passes, which they couldn't before. Having a Dean of Women is an asset to the school this year.

A lot of girls have already been calling Carol mother. "It doesn't bother me," she laughed. "But I'd really like to be more of a sister, but if a girl needs a mother, I'll be the mother! I would like to become personally acquainted with every girl.

Carol declares, "We have a good group this semester, and Betty Cheshare is a delight to work with! Our aim is to have the smoothest operating dorm in existence, with everybody as happy as possible."

After the appointment to her position, Carol knew it was "the stamp of confirmation" to know that ORU was the right place for her now.

"All this was such a surprise! I can just see God in it. When you commit your life to Him, you really gives you openings like you never dreamed of. God specializes in surprises, at least for me! I expect more!"

Why frost miss home

College life is fun and exciting, especially for freshmen, but we took a cross-section of the Class of 1973, to see what they miss most about what they left behind. Here's what they said.

Julie Simpson: Hobbies, Bluegrass music, my horses, and riding at night.

Pat Mason: I miss my girl! Lawana Wilkens: s: Talkin' things over with my mama.

Steve Brown: A combination of the mountains of Pennsylvania, my family, our cables, and the farm.

Sally DeAranda: Generally, the whole of New England. There's just no place like it all!".

Keith Myther: Sleeping late.

Raymond Hall: My car. My sister has it now.

Molly Shinneman: My dog, Sophie.

Hal Roth: My little sister.

Jean Fairley: Food from Trin dad.

In England: Watching the Minnesota Vikings.

Full Mosley: The mountains of Kentucky, hogs pickin', and guitar strummin'.

MARTI McNeil: My horse, my ranch, and my cattle.

Kathleen Johnson: Just my parents!

Amy Carroll: A place to go and be alone.

Paul Peterson, Ron Vincent, Calixto Garcia: My church.

David Ellsworth: I really enjoy myself here. I don't really think about missing anything.

Nominated outstanding young men

John T. Fisher and Henley C. Brown have been chosen for inclusion in the 1973 edition of "Outstanding Young Men in America," according to the Oral Roberts University Alumni Association.

Nominated by the organization earlier this year, the men were chosen for the annual awards program in recognition of their professional and community leadership.

Sponsored by leading men's civic and service organizations, Outstanding Young Men of America honoring men between the ages of 21 and 35 whose demonstrated excellence has marked them for future leadership in the nation.

Nominations for the program are made by officials of colleges and universities including presidents, deans and department heads, and those chosen are featured in a national awards volume.

How You Can Influence the System, will be the topic of a workshop for new voters 18-21 years of age held tomorrow at 13:00 p.m. in Aaronson Auditorium at Tulsa University. Featuring a lively "political action" game, moderator will be Estelle Hamilton, President League of Women Voters of Tuls. Presentation of party philosophies will be given by Howard G. Bryant, First District chairman, American Party. The Honorable Rodger A. Randol, House of Representatives, Democratic Party; and Don S. Hale, Director of Development, Oral Roberts University, Republican Party.

A game-plan involving a simulated governmental problem with involvement from the audience, will highlight the workshop which is aimed at increasing understanding of our political system.
Cast named for fall play

The cast for "A Man For All Seasons," the first of ORU's fall drama presentations, has been announced by the Communication Arts Department. This two-act drama by Robert Bolt is casted by senior Chuck Jones in the role of Sir Thomas More; Lady Alice More, Laura Bird; Lady Margaret More, Karim Afri-ken, Cardinal Wolsey, Louise Pfarr; Thomas Cranwell, Phil Brownwright; and King Henry the Eighth, Hal Warfield.

The role of Sigme Chapuys will be played by Tom Martin, Chapuys' attendant, Steve Ball; Norfolk, Bob Batch; William Roper, Charles Kennedy; Master Richard Rich, Clay Howlett; The Common Man, David West; A Woman, Molly Simmons; Her-eb, Vicki Woodroffe and Judy Hartman; and Thomas Cranwell will be played by Eugene Lynn.

The history of the struggle of Sir Thomas More will be pre- sented Thursday, September 30, through Saturday, October 2, with a possible added performance on October 4. Directing the play is Professor R. Roberts Lewandowski. Student Assistant director is Janet Fasutk.

New deans are appointed

Robert G. Voight, Dean of Student Affairs at Robert's University, announced last summer the appointment of Jack W. Wallace, B.A., M.S., as Dean of Men, and Mrs. Helen Inbody, B.A., M.A., as Dean of Women.

Dean Wallace, a native Oklaho- man, has been serving the university as Director of Housing for the past year, and Mrs. Inbody has completed a year as Director of Student Affairs. In addition to her duties as wome- n's dean, Mrs. Inbody teaches in the sociology department, in which her husband, Paul W. In- body, is assistant professor of so- ciology.

Wallace attended Northeast Oklahoma A&M and Kansas State University, graduating the latter in 1951. He obtained his master's in teaching from North- east State College at Tahlequah, Okla., in 1963; and in 1968 at- tended a counseling institute at Assumption College in Worcester, Mass. He coached football and basketball at Northeast Ok-lahoma and in Oklahoma and Kansas high schools for several years. He has two daughters and one grandson.

Mrs. Inbody, also a native Ok- lahoman, received both her B.A. and M.A. degree in sociology at the University of Tulsa. She worked in Oklahoma University's School Extension as an urban specialist, and was a consultant for the office of Economic Op- portunity. She has attended insti- tutes in gerontology, housing and race relations at Tulsa University. She and Professor Inbody have three children, the oldest a mar- ried daughter who will be a sen- ior this fall at ORU.
Total commitment is key to realities of life here

With two weeks of the 1971-72 Oral Roberts University school year past, the humanity and fallibility of administrators, faculty, and other student workers has become evident to all students, old and new. The reactions of various students to these realities portend their attitude towards ORU in the coming year.

New students have expressed surprise at what they consider "lack of spirituality" shown by some of the returning students. This lack, which includes complaints about the Honor Code and a seeming lack of interest in spiritual things, has led some to wonder at the spirituality of ORU. Other new students have indicated that some of the faculty do not show as much concern as they expected them to. Some freshmen have interpreted the Honor Code as being stricter than its enforcement.

Returning students seem to represent diverse viewpoints. Some accept reality and ORU and what it stands for. They know from experience that ORU is not a heaven on earth and that it has very real problems. Solving these problems is the focal point of their stay here. Others, however, after experiencing failure at their attempts to instill changes they feel would be profitable, have concluded that it is useless to attempt betterment of the school's administration.

What is the answer to this variance of opinions at ORU? It appears that there is but one common ground through which a cooperative and practical solution may be reached. The Man's name is Jesus Christ and this key word has remained the same throughout the years.

Total commitment to Christ is something that has been talked about endlessly, but has been practiced much too little. It is a very personal matter, for each person must decide how total his commitment will be.

And yet, it is very interpersonal. Our commitment to Christ is measured by others according to our words and deeds. As Paul said in 2 Cor. 3:14 we are epistles, "known and read of all men." At the same time, we are constantly making on-the-spot judgments of others, many times coming to an entirely wrong evaluation.

In the final analysis, each of us must day by day, give of ourselves to God to the extent He has enlightened us of our individual responsibilities to Him. That in turn will result in the giving of ourselves to others, which is the key word to the future.

At the beginning of this school year, let us commit ourselves to God, give of ourselves to others for the glory of God, and keep our eyes on Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith. Therein lies the answer to frustrations and disappointments caused by those around us.

Commentary

Are hypocrisy students in majority at ORU?

By Dave Markley

Late spring the first in a series of student polls was distributed to the students of ORU in the wake of considerable unrest. The poll was designed to reach the hands of personal callers and hard working silks. Therein lay a golden opportunity for all to express their feelings and ideas: the beginnings of communication. Some took advantage of this and produced some positive approaches to our problems: most did nothing. From the limited responses several conclusions can be drawn.

First, there exists a definite lack of communication between student officers and the students they supposedly represent.

Second, a good number of students are dissatisfied with the way their money is being handled if, indeed, they know how it is being handled at all.

Lastly, a student hearing should be held concerning generally the breakdown of the activities fee budget and specifically a decision on the future of the concert and lecture series. We students are passivelyustomed to pay for the present speakers and entertainments, while the administration is actively unwilling to allow, on our campus, the artists we prefer. Either a good middle ground which suits the majority must be found, or the mandatory fee should be dissolved.

In over two weeks a total of 242 polls were returned, more or less completed. Fewer than one in five ORU students responded! Of those that did respond, many were confused or disinterested. This is practically summed up in the following example: The first question for first year, not 54% responded that they knew how our $50.00 student activity fees was being handled; 37% knew they paid over $2,250.00 each year in scholarships for Student Senate officers (question no. 7). This mystery is compounded by the fact that a large spotlighted boxer bearing witness to the fee appeared in the cafeteria the same day the polls went out. The only conclusion is that obviously not all of the 131 well-meaning returns do know how our money is being used. As for the other 75.8% of our world-changing student body.

In addition to the questions, 107 students indicated their intent to take an active role in future student affairs by signing their names. Undoubtedly there remains a handful of concerned students, who for some reason either did not receive or returned their poll; however, I am sure there weren't 825 unfortunate.

President Roberts, in one of his talks, told of the 8% on our campus that are trying to be brought up. To the contrary, our potential downfall lies in the majority of our wishy-washy apathetic students who do not stand up for anything and are therefore not aware of the situation in control. The student poll results are just one indication of such a condition on our campus.

Before we can change our world, we must change our own hearts and then get our house in order. We need an earth as well as a spiritual base for our operations, and this base is ORU. Let's put aside last year and make this year a memorable one, not one of failure and confusion and half-baked attempts, but one of hard work and understanding and progress.

ORU entering new phase

by Rodney A. Jacobson

Student Senate President

In trying to organize the Student Senate, plan the social activities, and fulfill the other duties and responsibilities of student government for this year, we are discovering that as our student population increases it is becoming increasingly difficult to accomplish these things to the quality desired under our present organizational structure. ORU is entering into a new phase of its development and we are going to have to modify our student government to meet the needs and challenges of the future. Our present structure is good—but will we need a better one?

A committee is now being formed to look into the possibility of a Student Union Board on campus. This board would be primarily a planning and organizational center. Under their direction, various groups such as the Entertainment and Concert-Lecture committees. This may be a step towards student involvement and direction of the campus social functions.

We will also be looking into an endowment fund system for the Student Senate. In a few years, I believe we can plan our peak enrollment for the near future of 2,000 students. We must understand that the Senate is to operate as soon as possible the system that can best provide effective leadership for that size student group.

This is going to be a year of innovation and creativity on our campus. We need your help and ideas to accomplish these goals. We also welcome your criticisms so that we may try to improve all that we do. We want to encourage all students to come to your Student Senate meetings. We meet on Tuesday at 11:00 a.m. in Zepplin Auditorium. Also be sure to talk frequently with your student leaders. We know you can help us and we want to help you.

Five on faculty are honored

Five members of the Oral Roberts University faculty have been named Outstanding Educators of America for 1971, an annual award program to recognize distinguished men and women for their exceptional service, achievements, and leadership in the field of education. Nominated earlier this year, they were selected on the basis of their civic and professional achievements.

The men are William W. Jerinigan, Director of Libraries and Learning Resources; Dr. Verbal Stock, Chairman, Department of Mathematics; Dr. John K. Toz, Professor of Psychology; Dr. Roy E. Hammond, Professor of Sociology and Religion; and Dr. William R. Eppard, Acting Chairman, Department of English.

The Oracle speaks...

I AM THE ORACLE!!
I am among you and yet you do not know me. I am among you and yet you see me not. Simply—I am here to answer your questions. To help you with your problems. I am not Ann Landers or Dear Abby. This is a love-teen column. I am not President Roberts or Brother Bob. So who am I?

I'm your roommate. I'm the one you sit next to in Chapel. I'm the one you see each day in the cafeteria—and I want to help you.

I'm a student. I know the problems, into what bugs you the most. I don't know all the answers but I've worked out some answers that might help you. At least it's the try.

I'm a Christian. We've taught to 'be our another's burdens' and I'd like to help you make yours a little lighter. It just may be that I've got a Scripture verse that will help you along just as it's helped me. So, here I am. Do you need help in any way? Do you have...

Senate Soundings

Senate makes appointments

This column is not the collective opinion of the ORU Student Senate, nor does it represent the views of the ORU Student Senate. It is merely one student's comments reflecting Senate and how it operates.

As is usual, Senate began the year by sorting through a great deal of routine work. Committee appointments occupied the largest space on the agenda. After some delay, the positions were filled. Some of the positions were filled by students of whom Senate members knew nothing. They should not be the case. Committee memberships involve responsibility, and only those who are capable of assuming the particular responsibility of a committee should be appointed. When Senate members appoint people unknown to them, they may be appointing unqualified students.

To remedy this situation, perhaps those nominated could attend the Senate meeting to present their qualifications. Also, no student could be nominated unopposed. Every Senate member's name should be con- sent to the nomination. If Senate would adopt a system similar to this, perhaps attitudinal shortcomings in this body would diminish. It is only common and at- thought that a certain person wants a position could be elimin- ated.

Ten foreign flags added

Ten new flags have recently been added to the imposing Avenue of Flags which highlights the entrance to the Oral Roberts University campus on South Lewis Avenue. This raises to 30 the number of national emblems that represent the international students now attending or who have attended the institution.

In addition to the foreign flags, which flank either side of the avenue, four other flags fly over the landscaped island which divides the drive. These are Old Glory, the Oklahoma flag, the Christian banner, and the ORU flag.

The new flags represent Brazil, Gambia, Haiti, Liberia, Netherlands, New Zealand, Peru, Rhodesia, Spain, and West Germany. The original flags were those of Australia, Canada, Chili, Czechoslovakia, Finland, France, Guatemala, India, Jamaica, Japan, Mexico, Norway, Puerto Rico, Republic of China, Rhodesia, South Africa, South Korea, Trinidad, United Arab Emirates, and the United Kingdom.

The entrance was formally dedicated on October 13, 1969, with local and state dignitaries and the entire university community participating. A student from each of the 20 original countries carried his country's flag, which students raised. State Senator Finis Smith raised the United States and Oklahoma banners, Campus Minister Bob Stamps the Christian emblem, and President Oral Roberts the first official ORU flag.

Any foreign student whose home country is not represented by a flag is asked to inform Robert Eckridge, Vice President of Student Affairs.

OIL chapter asks for student ideas

The Oral Roberts University chapter of the Oklahoma Inter-collegiate Legislature (OIL) is ORU's representative body to Oklahoma University students to increase and encourage student participation in state government. All bills passed by OIL are submitted to the state legislature as the representative opinion of Oklahoma college students.

"We want to accurately represent the views of the ORU student body," stated Brian Stal- wick, delegation chairman. "In order to do so, we need to know what each student feels about local, state and national issues.

"If a student has an idea for legislation, we would appreciate hearing from him. At the present time, we are considering legislation which would involve the Labor Department and the High- way Department.

All comments and letters should be turned in to Brian Stalwic, MWR No. 260 or Cindy Davis, WMR No. 265.

Talented Titans anticipate challenging schedule

by David Lapp

When Oral Roberts University opens its 1971-72 basketball season on December 1 at Normal, Illinois, against Illinois State, it willfigurably be the best team in ORU's short five-year history. Coach Ken Trickey believes he has the talent to come up with an undefeated season. Seven returning starters, five other lettermen, transfer student Melvin Morton, and some top-notch players from last year's freshman squad are the big reasons for optimism.

Recently accepted into acceptance into the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) means the Titans could be involved in a post-season tournament if their record warrants such a selection.

Play game in the Garden

The Titans will be playing their roughest schedule in history. Major games include trips involving Harvard, Boston University, Butler, West Texas State, St. Francis (Pa.), Lamar Tech, Los Angeles State, Murray State, Maine, Idaho State, Morehead State, Pan American, Eastern Michigan, Toledo, and Fresno State.

Possibly the most important date in the Titans' schedule is December 9 contest at Madison Square Garden in New York City against Hofstra University. The Titans play against the odds in the Garden because it is the first game of the season and that the team has arrived. Sport Information Director Bob Brooks reported.

Broadcast live games

Another big breakthrough for ORU is that the entire 1971-72 schedule will be broadcast live on 50,000-watt KRMG, one of Oklahoma's leading radio stations. From the Garden, the university radio and TV sportscaster will relate the play-by-play game accounts.

The Titan home season begins on Friday, December 3, when ORU tangles with California State University at Fullerton. The Titan-Titans will begin at 7:30 p.m. and will be preceded by a 5:30 fresh-

Last year's record of 30-4 brought Coach Duke's overall record at ORU to 87-9. The regular season does not begin until February, but private tournaments such as Hardcork Invitational will be used to extend the season. The Titan netters will play in such a tourney in Tulsa October 1-3, to prepare for a season that could equal or better the ninth place national ranking of last season.

termen, transfer student Melvin Morton, and some top-notch players from last year's freshman squad are the big reasons for optimism.

Recently accepted into acceptance into the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) means the Titans could be involved in a post-season tournament if their record warrants such a selection.

Play game in the Garden

The Titans will be playing their roughest schedule in history. Major games include trips involving Harvard, Boston University, Butler, West Texas State, St. Francis (Pa.), Lamar Tech, Los Angeles State, Murray State, Maine, Idaho State, Morehead State, Pan American, Eastern Michigan, Toledo, and Fresno State.

Possibly the most important date in the Titans' schedule is December 9 contest at Madison Square Garden in New York City against Hofstra University. The Titans play against the odds in the Garden because it is the first game of the season and that the team has arrived. Sport Information Director Bob Brooks reported.

Broadcast live games

Another big breakthrough for ORU is that the entire 1971-72 schedule will be broadcast live on 50,000-watt KRMG, one of Oklahoma's leading radio stations. From the Garden, the university radio and TV sportscaster will relate the play-by-play game accounts.

The Titan home season begins on Friday, December 3, when ORU tangles with California State University at Fullerton. The Titan-Titans will begin at 7:30 p.m. and will be preceded by a 5:30 fresh-

Last year's record of 30-4 brought Coach Duke's overall record at ORU to 87-9. The regular season does not begin until February, but private tournaments such as Hardcork Invitational will be used to extend the season. The Titan netters will play in such a tourney in Tulsa October 1-3, to prepare for a season that could equal or better the ninth place national ranking of last season.
