"We'd like to try it again next year," said Alex Corbitt of the first ORU Easter Egg Hunt held last Saturday on the north lawn adjacent to the men's parking lot. Corbitt, who got the raw end of the deal (above right photo), helped organize the egg hunt with help from Brian Stalwick, Dean of Men Jack Wallace, and Saga food. About 40 ORU students participated in the hunt for the assortment of 400 eggs and found themselves crawling on all fours like Doreen Wilson (left photo) in search of the concealed objects. Jim Rodriguez won $5 for finding the grand prize egg with "Love" written on it. Rod Jacobsen won an Easter egg basket for finding the egg with "ORU" on it.

Steve Smith obtains math fellowship

"Most people are prejudiced against math and don't realize that many concepts are carried into everyday life, in subjects such as theology and philosophy," says Steve Smith, a senior math major at Oral Roberts University, who has received a Fellowship for Graduate Study for 9 months at the University of Florida, Gainesville.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Smith, Steve discovered an interest in math during his junior and senior high school days at Elmore City High School in Elmore City, Okla. In addition to math, he is also interested in science, particularly physics. His interest in math was increased through high school by his math teachers.

Steve watched Oral Roberts on television as a small child, but did not hear of ORU until he was a sophomore in high school when a friend mentioned the University to him. From that time he decided that he wanted to attend ORU.

In addition to his work in math, Steve is receiving his minor in physics and works in the physics lab as a lab assistant. A member of the ORU Honor Society with fellow status, and a National Merit Scholar in 1969, Steve did his senior paper on "A Generalization on the Riemann Integral." Recently he presented a paper at the Undergraduate Section of the Oklahoma-Arkansas Section of the Mathematical Association of America meeting in Conway, Ark. Last summer, Steve took part in an individual study program, the National Science Foundation Undergraduate Re-

His ambition is to become a college professor. In August, he will marry Miss Connie Fireoved, an ORU junior from Kansas City, Kans.

Panel to discuss politics April 12

A political awareness panel will convene April 12 at 7 p.m. in Timko-Barton Auditorium. Roger Randel, Representative to the Oklahoma House, will be speaking for the Democrats, and Charles Prentice, a member of the Tulsa County Republican Executive Committee, will represent the Republican party. The political education program will include discussion of national party platforms, student involvement, present candidates, primaries, and the national party conventions.

Editor interviews

Final interviews for editorships of student publications will be taken Tuesday, April 11 at 11 a.m. in LRC 311. New applicants and all prior applicants are asked to be present, with written applications for the Oracle, Promethia, and Perihelion editorships.

Israel summer program offers excavation work

ORU students have the opportunity to enroll in an excavation course work in Israel this summer, according to Dr. Roy Hayden. The Summer 1972 Study Program will include two to eight weeks of excavation at Tel Qasile near Tel Aviv. Linked with the Philistines and the Kingdoms of David and Solomon, Tel Qasile is of deep interest for Biblical studies.

The program is being sponsored by the Tel Aviv Museum Ha'Aretz, the Hebrew University Institute of Archaeology, the Israel Exploration Society, and the American Institute of Holy Land Studies.

In addition to the excavation at Tel Qasile, it is also possible to earn credits from the American Institute for one or more of the three courses listed in the schedule. Ecavation trip dates include:

- June 18 to 30—Intensive Field Trips or Excavation Tel Qasile.
- July 2 to 14—Excavation Tel Qasile or Intensive Field Trips.
- July 16 to 28—Course: Palestinian Archaeology or Excavation Tel Qasile.
- July 30 to August 11—Course: Historical and Physical Geography of Palestine or Excavation Tel Qasile.
- August 14 to August 26—Course: Social and Political Institutions of Modern Israel.

All interested students should contact Dr. Roy Hayden in LRC 510M or Ext. 2508. If 20 students under 21 years of age are interested, the flight rate is $459 per person. Otherwise, it is $596. Room and board is $6 per day. Tuition is as follows: $105 for 2 weeks of excavating; $75 for 2 weeks of course work; $110 for 2 weeks of field trips.

A full summer of study will give the student a well-rounded and enriching background of the ancient and modern history of Israel.

Burton solos for Jazz Ensemble

Jazz vocalist Bobby Burton will be the special guest soloist at the April 8 concert of the Titan Jazz Ensemble. The 8 p.m. performance in Timko-Barton will feature besides the Jazz Ensemble, two other jazz groups composed of University students, all of which are under the direction of Bill Shellenbarger.

Shellenbarger commented that "the concert is geared to the musical tastes of the campus and catered to the student body." The free hour-long program will consist of current and popular tunes, with Burton featured in a group called the "Clarion Five Plus." Distinguished by five trumpets, this group specializes in Shellenbarger's arrangements of Bill Chase-type music.

Burton, a very good friend of Shellenbarger, is assistant principal at Jackson Elementary School. Having received his B.S. Degree in Education at Langston University, he is now working toward his Masters Degree at Northeastern. A performer in the "Natural Brass Co.," he enjoys soul music and jazz and says he is an "avid fan of 'Chicago' and 'Blood, Sweat and Tears.'" When practicing with the ORU jazz groups recently, he said he was "very impressed with the musicians and really looking forward to the concert."

The Titan Jazz Ensemble will be featured in such selections as "Boogaloo," a hard rock number featuring Bill Kunze on drums; "Blues for Dr. Cranberry" with Don Eland on flute; "Lost Soul," presenting soloists Phil Setchfield on tenor sax, Karl Stottlemyre on trombone, and Linda Malham on trumpet; and a jazz rock piece by Bill Chase, "Get It On."

A third jazz group formed by Don Eland will entertain with "Chicago" selections.

"These guys are really blowing," Shellenbarger commented, and also mentioned they were preparing for an April 28 jazz contest in Wichita, Kans.

Speakers planned for spiritual life

Rudy Lack, Youth With A Mission's Director in Africa, will be speaking at the Student Foreign Missions Fellowship meeting Monday, April 10 at 5 p.m. in Room 207A of the cafeteria. For the past 2 years Rudy has worked closely with Brother Andrew.

Larry Christenson, charismatic leader and author of The Christian Family, will be the chapel speaker, Wednesday, April 12. He will also be speaking in LRC 236-237 from 7 to 9 that evening.

They see the Son

Vicki Brackett (left) and Candy J. McNulty, ORU freshmen, were killed in a two-car accident a week ago last Thursday night on U.S. 64 south of Bixby. Vicki, 19, was a Biblical literature major from Perry, Ga., and was active in the Campus Life organization. Candy was a communication arts major from Horseshoe, N.C., and was active in campus drama productions.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following was written by Frank De Lost, resident counselor of the third-floor Brotherhood wing to his wingmates the Friday following the death of Vicki Brackett and Candy J. McNulty.

Friday Morning
March 24

Brotherhood—Some thoughts I had this morning on the loss of Candy and Vicki:

Things sometimes happen to loved ones while we are in this lifetime that cause us to ask, "Why?" and just simply question God with, "God, how could you do such a thing?" In answering this question, I'm forced to ask another question, one mystery that has been a question for a long time, and that is, "God, how could you love us so much? How could you give your only Son for us?"

Candy and Vicki probably saw the sunset last night and they weren't with us this morning to see the sunrise. But I'd rather think of it this way. We haven't seen the sunset (death), but they have seen the sunrise—the sun risen—the Risen Son. They will miss Easter, 1972, but fellows, right now they are experiencing Easter Himself—the Risen Savior, Christ, our Lord. And someday, we'll all be with those two girls and the rest of our loved ones who have and who will pass away. And greatest of all, we'll be with Jesus, and have a great time fellowshiping with Him and them when we get there too!

Have a Blessed Easter,
Your R.C., Frank

How would you spend your $50?

The wheels of student-government machinery have begun to revolve about the annual process of allotting Student Senate funds for the 1972-73 school year. Treasurer Neil Clapp has begun consulting student organizations to determine funds needed next year.

So what does that mean? Now is the time for students to voice their concern about the use being made of their $50 per annum. Instead of waiting for approval of the budget by the senate, talk to your senator now. Tell him how you think things should be changed before they're approved or even proposed the wrong way.

One of the new items to be considered in drawing up the budget will be the student radio station now in the making. Mickey Mitchell has been working hard at the final plans for the station, which will probably begin broadcasting next year. Thus, the radio station will be a new expense and will require cutting back in several areas. We urge support for this new student endeavor, which will help to complete the communication lines on campus and catch those who don't . . . read The Oracle. Plans for the radio station will be announced soon.

WE THOUGHT YOU'D LIKE TO KNOW that April is "Don't Litter" month. An announcement in the Tulsa World Sunday said that organizers of the National Keep America Beautiful Campaign asks Oklahomans not to "Be an April fool" and correctly dispose of litter. Since All Fool's Day was last Saturday, we suppose the UPI writer was trying to say that that was the last day you were allowed to fool around littering.

All fooling aside, let's be careful not to litter. We're thinking specifically of places like the parking lots where pop cans and bottles sometimes have a tendency to fall. A punctured tire isn't any fun and is a bad idea for a joke. —KGH

by Ruth Figi

While you were all on vacation, here's the "excitement" we had on campus! Steve Cain and Tommy Thompson went fishing down at the ORU pond. Steve caught a fish, and Tommy said, "Hey, that looks like the one I caught yesterday and threw back in!" Steve threw it back too. Bet that's one fish glad to see vacation come to an end! . . . We got to ride the elevator from first floor to whatever floor we wanted . . . nonstop! No waiting! Course, the halls were slightly deserted when we got there! . . . eight persons for supper one night . . . A black widow spider found in the seventh floor apartment gave some girls a "thrill" . . . an Easter egg hunt on Sunday with several raw eggs thrown in for kicks . . . Aren't you sorry you didn't stay here too?

* * *

My roommate came back from vacation, and the first night shocked me with this. She had been asleep for about an hour, when suddenly she said, "Hey!" "Yeah?" I answered. "Are there any men in this room?" she demanded. "Not in our room, Sarah!" I told her. "Good!" she answered, and went back to sleep!

Senate committee positions open

Any student wishing to serve as a Student Senate committee chairman for the 1972-73 academic year should submit a written application to either Chris Busch or Dave Markley in the MHR. Committee chairmanships available include Cultural Affairs, Communications, Entertainment, and Social Functions. ORU women are especially encouraged to apply for these positions.

News headliners . . .

McGovern Wins in Wisconsin

Sen. George S. McGovern received 30 percent of the vote cast in Wisconsin's presidential primary, thereby scoring his first victory as a major contender for the Democratic presidential nomination. McGovern placed above contenders including Alabama's Gov. George C. Wallace (22 percent), Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (21 percent), Sen. Edmund S. Muskie (10 percent), Sen. Henry Jackson (8 percent), and Major John Lindsay (7 percent).

As a result of his poor showing, New York Mayor John Lindsay withdrew as a Democratic presidential candidate saying, "I can't honestly continue . . . The returns are clear."

Nixon suspends Paris peace talks

President Nixon last week said he personally ordered an indefinite U.S. suspension of the Paris peace talks. The President said in a news conference that the United States would be willing to participate in the talks again if the Communists are prepared to "negotiate seriously."

U.S. recognizes Bangladesh

The United States this week extended formal diplomatic recognition to Bangladesh, the new nation which broke away from Pakistan in last December's India-Pakistan war.

Senators may award themselves mementos

Student Senate discussed several matters of importance in last Monday evening's session. The first item on the agenda was the possibility of awarding plaques or medallions to the outgoing senators as a memento of their Senate experiences. The senators voted to look into the possibility of presenting themselves with these mementos, which would be paid for by the money allocated for student government operating expenses. Every student contributes $5.55 from his student activity fee to that portion of the budget. If any student feels that such action is a wise expenditure of his money, he should contact his class officers and encourage them in this action.

The senators also acted favorably on a motion that had been tabled last week. The motion stated that "a letter and/or suggestions be sent to those Senate committee chairmen and department chairmen sponsoring events attended by ORU students and off campus people asking that priority be given to ORU students in seating arrangements." This resolution was a response to the situation which occurred during one of the performances of "Under the Sycamore Tree," when several rows in the center section of the auditorium were roped off and reserved for off campus people.

Last week, Rod Jacobsen, ASB president, announced that Dewey Bartlett, the former Oklahoma governor who is currently seeking a U.S. Senate seat, will visit the ORU campus sometime in May. This week, Don Lehman, newly-elected junior class vice-president, suggested that U.S. Representative Ed Edmondson, who is seeking the same Senate position, also be invited to speak to the ORU students, so that the students not be presented with a one-sided view of the issues involved in this particular Senate race. The student senators discussed the possibility without reaching any decision.

Next week, Senate will take up discussion of next year's budget.

Titans crate Creighton U

The ORU Baseball Titans took their series with Creighton last week 4-2. The series left ORU with a 13-11 record, with 31 games left to play in the Titans' demanding schedule.

In the opening double-header Wednesday ORU took the first game 6-5, only to lose the second in extra innings, 4-3. David Roof was the winning pitcher for ORU in the first stanza, while Steve Cain took the extra-inning loss in the second game.

Thursday, Jack Cheney lost a pitcher's battle in the first game, 1-0. Jack had pitched a no-hitter through the first five innings.

In the second game Larry Tolbert, who has been ORU's hard-luck pitcher in the early stages of the season, dropping several close decisions, got a much deserved victory, via a 3-1 score.

In Saturday's double-header, the Titans were able to sweep both games, blasting Creighton 12-5 in the opener, and fighting back from a 4-2 deficit to take the second game 6-4.

In the opener, ORU collected 15 hits, including Greg Davis's 3-run homer in the first inning. Steve Cain was the winning Titan pitcher.

In the second stanza, it looked as though yet another split was in the making, as Creighton took a 4-2 advantage into the fifth inning. But Tommy Thompson's solo homer, his second of the nightcap, started a hitting explosion by the Titans that left Creighton on the short end of a 6-4 score at the game's end.

Tomorrow the Titans will play a double-header with Oklahoma City University. The game will be at ORU, starting at 1 p.m.

Tourney planned

The Theory of Coaching and Teaching Women's Sports class will sponsor a badminton tournament for ORU men and women Friday, April 28 at 1 p.m.

All entries must be in by 12 noon, Thursday, April 13. Questions concerning the tournament should be directed to the tournament director, Becky Thomas (ext. 2855).

Titan talk...

by Dan Presley

Looking back over the Titan basketball season, one cannot help but be a little awed. The goals accomplished, the records broken, the national recognition gained, and the dreams fulfilled are the sweet fruit of hard work, enthusiasm, and believing.

The Oral Roberts cagers attained heights that would normally seem unattainable for a team from such a small and young school. Before the St. John's loss, Larsen Basketball Forecaster ranked the Titans No. 6 among the last 12 teams to be eliminated in the NCAA and NIT tournaments. The Carr Ratings ranked ORU as the 11th-best team in the country prior to NIT action. Associated Press gave the Titans a No. 16 ranking in their poll.

The man with the mortar arms, Richard Fuqua, was named to the 10-man U.S. Basketball Writers All-America team after he almost captured the national scoring title. Carrying a 35.9 scoring average per game, he poured in 1,006 points this season.

The Associated Press honored Fuqua by naming him to the third team of their All-America squad. He also made the NCAA District 5 second team.

Fuqua managed all this as a junior. Naturally, ORU coaches drool and opposing coaches wince at the prospect of his return next year. However, he has a wife and a child, and there is the possibility that he might sign pro before next season. Many feel that he will finish his education first. In either case his decision will be respected by the ORU coaching staff.

Big Sam McCamey, an outstanding forward and a senior, brought further honors to the school as he was named to the NCAA's Academic All-America team announced last Monday.

The Titan head coach received one of the biggest honors of all. Ken Trickey was chosen by the American Football and Basketball Conference as the Basketball Coach of the Year.

Next year the Titans will truly be expecting great things. Slim Montgomery will return at forward, 6-7 center Eddie Woods will switch to the other forward slot, and it is hoped Fuqua will return to the backcourt. Larry Baker, who was named to the ORU Classic All-Tourney team this year, and Melvin Morton, a junior college transfer, will return to give the forward position additional strength.

Replacing Woods at center will be highly lauded David Vaughn, a superprospect who averaged 32.2 points and 23.1 rebounds per game on this year's 15-4-1 freshman team. The 6-11 Vaughn could become one of the nation's best big men.

Playing opposite Fuqua will be possibly Ken Cooper or Vincent Banks, who averaged 23.4 and 26.6 points per game, respectively, for the frosh team this past season. Also in the picture are some red-shirted players and the freshmen recruited this year.

Leaving the Titan ranks will be seniors Eldon Lawyer, Milton Vaughn, Tim Cameron, and McCamey, all of whom have contributed much to the ORU program.

As Oral Roberts University comes increasingly into the national spotlight, let us increasingly put the One who made it all possible before the public, the Lord of lords: "Declare his glory among the heathen, his wonders among the people. The Lord is great, and greatly to be praised." Psalm 96:3, 4a.

Netters top ORU meet

While students were taking a break from the classroom schedule, the ORU Titan tennis team was busy fighting its way through a tough tennis schedule to a record of 21-4-1. Coach Bernis Duke's netters won two tournaments and a match in a period that covered a little more than a week.

The string of successes began with a victory in the Spring College Tournament held in Magnolia, Ark., March 24 and 25. In the six divisions of the tourney, ORU took first in five, with Josef Solc, Erik Ulleberg, Mario Pakozdi, Norbert Orthner, and Robyn Gool winning their respective positions. The Titans scored 44 points with the closest team scoring 27-1/2.

Coach Duke's team entered ORU's own tourney seeded third behind old nemesis West Texas State and University of Arkansas. The Titans beat Kansas State College in the opening round of play. Next on the list of victims was Midwestern University. In the semifinals the Titans avenged their loss earlier in the week by downing the Arkansas team.

West Texas State, a winner over ORU in two earlier tournaments this year and the top seeded team in the tournament, was the favorite to win in the finals against the Titan netters. The Titan netters pulled the rug out from under the favorites in a stunning upset over the defending Missouri Valley Conference champions with a close 5-4 victory.

1972-73 dorm presidents keyed to cooperate

by Donna Toms

Cooperation is seen as the vital format to make things work together for the good of the student body, according to newly elected Associated Women and Men Students presidents, Diane Steere and Gary Crafton. The two presidents have plans to bring the AWS and AMS to a closer relationship by sponsoring activities with a more relaxed atmosphere, where the girls and guys will be able to get to know each other and not feel conspicuous.

There are many changes and improvements Crafton and Miss Steere would like to see made to benefit the students, and by working with Dean Helen Inbody, Dean Jack Wallace, and Dean Robert Voight more closely, they feel that these can be achieved. Crafton sees an excellent opportunity to "iron out the differences between the students and administration, by acting as a liaison between them." Plans for better communication with the Senate are being made so that the presidents will be informed concerning what the students want and able to represent those ideas to the Senate.

Many changes could be made in the women's dorm, according to Miss Steere. "We are trying to compile a handbook for dorm living by getting ideas from several other universities' handbooks. This handbook would provide the girls with a fast reference to the dress code, curfew, and other general rules that normally take too long to hunt up in the Student Handbook. It would also include helpful hints on dorm living and even a section on etiquette."

The AMS, Crafton feels, could be of vital help to the Tulsa community. Plans for a Halloween party for orphans and a canned food drive for the underprivileged at Thanksgiving are already being contemplated.

At the present, improvement for the men's dorm is getting a fair share of attention. "Did you know," Crafton asked, "that there are no liquid soap dispensers in the men's rest rooms in the MHR? There is also no carpeting in the rooms. If the school will not provide these things, the only way I can see that we will be able to get them is to purchase them ourselves. And to do this, we need money. That is why next year, AMS dues will have to be paid. I have checked into the AWS records, and with the dues they have collected for the past few years, they have been able to purchase an ice machine. The men's fees have not been collected for the past few years. I do not know why this wasn't done, but the dues for the next year will be about $2 per person. This money will go toward some of things the guys have been complaining about not having, such as a greater variety of food vendors, and maybe a couple of ping-pong tables. I am also going to check and see why the unused apartments can not be opened on each floor so the men could have access to a stove and refrigerator.

"All calls need to have a regular schedule, say between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m. so that the guys can have a chance sometime during the day to hear the messages. I would also like to see the J-boards become more effective and a strict enforcement of the quiet hours."

Gary has already chosen his AMS executive board. The vice-president of academic affairs is Gabriel Hegyes, social affairs; Phil Rounds; athletic affairs, Mike Ash; secretary, Ron Smith, Jr.; and treasurer, Joey Riuz.

Gentis offers program: Italian, German songs

A program of art songs and German lieder will be presented by Lynn Gentis, Friday, April 14, in her senior voice recital. Beginning at 8 p.m. in Timko-Barton Recital Hall, her selections will include Italian art songs such as "Man Is for the Woman Made," and "What Can We Poor Females Do?" both by Henry Purcell; German lieder by Schumann, Schubert, and Mendelssohn, and English art songs by Edvard Grieg such as "A Swan", "Spring," and "Solweig's Song."

Lynn transferred to ORU after two years at Oklahoma State University. Presently she plays bassoon in the Concert Band, wind ensemble, and Orchestra.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Gentis of Jenks, she is presently doing her student teaching in Jenks and would like to teach music on the elementary level after graduating.

Teemen up record to 6-1; defeat TU

The ORU golfers raised their season record to 6-1 with a 5-under-par victory over Tulsa University and Missouri Western at LaFortune Park on Tuesday afternoon. Dave Barr was medalist for the Titans with a 69 score as three ORU golfers finished under par. The total team scores for the day were ORU, 283; Tulsa, 291; and Missouri Western, 313.

Last Saturday afternoon, the Titan golfers traveled to Norman for a quadrangular meet with Oklahoma, Oklahoma City, and Oklahoma Baptist. The only loss of the day and of the season was an 8-1/2—6-1/2 loss to host team Oklahoma.

ORU opened its 1972 dual season on March 28 and emerged as the victor over Northeastern State, 15-1 and Central State, 9-1/2—6-1/2. Ted Gellert, with a 76 score, was medalist in the meet at Meadowbrook Country Club.

Facing a heavy schedule during the remainder of the season, the ORU golfers are in Tahlequah for a return match against Northeastern State this afternoon. Next weekend they travel to Joplin, Mo., to defend their championship title in the Joplin Invitational Tournament.
