Roberts offers Nixon Invitation

The dedication of the Mabee Center may be highlighted by the presence of President Richard M. Nixon. Nixon was invited during an interview with Oral Roberts University President Oral Roberts. Roberts met with Nixon at the White House by invitation of the President.

It was the third such invitation issued by President Nixon to Roberts, who was compelled to decline the first two invitations due to television tapings and other engagements related to his ministry. Roberts first met President Nixon at the Port of Catoosa dedication ceremonies last summer.

"I liked him very much," Roberts said about the President. "I found the President in good health and optimistic."

What does one say in a private conversation with the President of the United States?

"First, I thanked him for the personal influence he had had on my life 3 years ago, just after he was elected," said Roberts. "At that time, I had been off television for about 3 years and had serious doubts as to whether I would ever return. Our ministry had met some serious setbacks and things looked pretty rough for the University and other phases of our ministry. We were at one of our lowest points."

"Nixon's success in what seemed to be an impossible situation inspired me. I was impressed that he had fought through the defeat in California and had been elected to this country's highest office under such improbable conditions. His example prompted me to revitalize our television ministry with a new format. And since that time, the ministry has tripled in all areas, and the University now has an unlimited future."

"The President seemed delighted to hear this and responded, 'A person must never stop fighting.'"

Did the discussion between President Nixon and Roberts enter the area of international or national affairs?

"We discussed the future of this country," said Roberts. "I told him that I sensed a turning around in the thinking and actions of the thousands of young people I come into contact with each year. I told him that I believe we will see less violence and less militant youth activity in the future. The president said he also sensed this. He said he felt that American young people are beginning to realize that the way to change things is to work with the people who have built this country. He is pleased with some of the changes that have been made and looks for even great changes in the future."

"I was impressed with the President's deep concern about ending the war in Vietnam. He was pleased that he had been able to reduce the draft and was optimistic that a peaceful solution could be reached."

"I shared with him my personal feeling that his trips to China and Moscow had brought about a hope in the American public that a door had been opened for better understanding and cooperation, in spite of our deep ideological differences with these countries. Because the President seemed to feel better as a result of the trip, everyone else felt better. I also congratulated him on his television appearances following those trips."

"We compared our television techniques, and I expressed my personal philosophy that it is better to try to envision speaking to just one person, instead of an entire nation, while speaking on television. The President indicated that he intends to make greater use of television in the future."

Has Oral Roberts University become a household word in the White House?

Election activities slated Sept. 18-29

Student elections will be held at Oral Roberts University on September 29. Four officers will be elected to represent the freshman class, and a treasurer will be elected for each of the sophomore, junior, and senior classes.

The candidates must be full-time students enrolled in 12 hours or more, have at least a 2.5 grade point average, and hold no more than one class of office. Further explanation of the regulations may be found in the Student Handbook on pages 27-42.

Students interested in running for an office may receive a petition from Helen Inbody, the Dean of Student Affairs, beginning Monday, September 18. The prospective candidate must acquire at least 25 signatures of support and return the petition by 3 p.m. Friday, September 22, to be eligible for candidacy.

Primary speeches will be held September 25, the primary elections on September 26, the general election speeches September 28, and the general elections September 29.

Students interested in further information may contact David Markley, Student Senate vice-president and Elections Committee chairman.

Total enrollment reaches 2,500

Oral Roberts University recorded almost a 50 percent increase in full-time student enrollment this semester, in contrast to trends of stabilizing and declining enrollment at other area colleges and universities.

Although counting is not complete, Vice-President of Admissions and Records Chuck Ramsey said total enrollment of full-time and part-time students will exceed 2,500.

"There will be approximately 1,800 full-time students and 725 part-time and evening students." Part-time students are those with less than 12 credit hours.

"Approximately 1,800 new applications were received for the fall semester. Of these 650 freshmen and 200 transfer students were enrolled," said Ramsey.

Tapes, tests scheduled

Freshman students should listen to "College Bound: Notes, Notes, and More Notes" on the system all day today. They should also listen to "College Bound: Examinations" Sept. 18.

* * *

All freshmen and transfer students who have not taken or completed both tests given by the Counseling Center on Monday, August 28, should make arrangements with the center to complete these tests.

Dying to self

Are you dead?

When you are forgotten or neglected, or purposely set at naught, and you don't sting and hurt with insult or oversight, but your heart is happy, being counted worthy to suffer for Christ, THAT IS DYING TO SELF.

When your good is evil spoken of, when your wishes are crossed, your advice disregarded, your opinions ridiculed, and you refuse to let anger rise in your heart, or even defend yourself, but take it all in patient silence, THAT IS DYING TO SELF.

When you lovingly and patiently bear any disorder, any irregularity, any impunctuality, or any annoyance; when you can stand face to face with waste, folly, extravagance, spiritual insensibility, and endure it as Jesus endured it, THAT IS DYING TO SELF.

When you are content with any food, any offering, any raiment, any climate, any society, any solitude, any interruption by the will of God, THAT IS DYING TO SELF.

When you never care to refer to yourself in conversation, or to record your own good works, or itch after commendation, when you can truly love to be unknown, THAT IS DYING TO SELF.

When you can see your brother prosper and have his needs met, and can honestly rejoice with him in spirit and feel no envy or question God, while your own needs are far greater and in desperate circumstances, THAT IS DYING TO SELF.

When you can receive correction and reproof from one of less stature than yourself, and can humbly submit inwardly as well as outwardly, finding no rebellion in your heart, THAT IS DYING TO SELF.

Are you dead yet? In these last days the Spirit would bring us to know the Cross. "That I may know Him . . . being made conformable to His death."

Roberts, Senate discuss seats

President Oral Roberts addressed a special meeting of the Student Senate at 11 a.m. last Monday in the LRC sixth floor conference room to discuss student seating for basketball games in Mabee Center.

Asked last year for their recommendation, Senate suggested sections L, LL, M, MM, N, and NN for student seating.

Following a discussion, Roberts said he hoped Senate would change its recommendation, as the sections recommended were needed to fulfill other commitments, and said he would leave the room while Senate deliberated on the change. He announced that he would accept whatever alternate recommendation Senate made.

Steve Stockley, senior class president, proposed that Senate request the four end sections of the sports arena. The proposal passed on a roll call vote of 12 to 2, with one vote abstaining.

Josh White, Jr. captivates the ORU students during a Sept. 1 concert. The concert sponsored by the Entertainment Committee, was the first of the semester.

Josh White concert

'a new adventure'

by Art Walker

One of the most exciting things about being a Christian is marveling at the countless ways the Lord uses to speak to people. Many of us had that opportunity Sept. 1 when Josh White, Jr., brought his soft, mood music to ORU.

The first impression one got of Josh White was that the Entertainment Committee had actually latched onto Issac Hayes. Many performers have their certain songs that are great, but White made every song a new adventure. He poured his all into every phrase. His singing was more than words alone.

Musical ability wasn't White's only asset. His humor and ability to communicate equaled his ability to sing. ORU students felt so comfortable that they joined in on several songs.

Following "You've Got A Friend," which everyone sang, White ended with an earnest "God bless you." A booming ovation by the ORU students summoned his return to the stage, and he continued with two more numbers. Then it happened. Someone yelled from the back, "Let us teach you one!" After a little encouragement, Larry Stockstill stepped onto the stage, picked up White's guitar and began to play "Amazing Grace." The students began to sing, and I began to watch the face of Josh White. What started as a look of confusion, slowly turned to a weak smile, and broke into song as Josh White joined in with the students. As we sang together, those eyes and teeth which had glowed all night began to shine even brighter, and I've got a feeling that something similar was happening on the inside as well.

Following the song, Josh White just gave the audience another glance, shook his head, and walked off the stage. As he walked out he turned to one ORU student and said, "God wanted me to be here at ORU."

Those of us who were there received a blessing, as well as gave a blessing. We will long remember the soft mood that is Josh White, Jr., and I have a feeling that he will long remember ORU.

Mabee jobs available

With the completion of the new Mabee Center approximately 200 new job opportunities will be available to ORU students, faculty, staff, and residents of University Village. Needed are ticket takers, ushers, parking assistants, traffic directors, security personnel, waiters, and waitresses for basketball games, theatrical performances, concerts, operas, banquets, and conventions.

This is an excellent opportunity for students wanting part-time work and especially those having no transportation for off-campus jobs. It is close by with short working hours.

Interested students must contact John McKinney in the LRC, 743-6161, ext. 226 or 227. September 30 is the deadline to enlist in the newest organization on campus—Mabee's Moonlighters.

Frosh Week spirit changes

Slaves are no more! Upperclassmen washed their own cars and laundry, and polished their shoes one more week out of the school year as Frosh Week underwent a crucial change. President Oral Roberts informed the student body last Friday of the administration's decision to revamp the week. He felt Frosh Week had stunted the harmonious spirit of the students in years past. President Roberts, being sensitive to the warm and excited atmosphere of this fall term, made the decision in order to avoid any snags in the development of this harmony.

A memo was sent out stating: "As a young University we are fostering unique traditions which will be a unifying force among our student body."

"One of these traditions is 'Frosh Week.' Frosh Week will be used to bring the Freshmen together as a class and to acquaint them with the entire student body. This will be a time of fun where upperclassmen can lend a mature and constructive hand to integrating the Freshmen class into the ORU student body."

To start the week, the frosh met at 4 p.m. Monday in front of the SUB for a campus ecology study. The study proved to be a policing of the grounds. Then came the beanies which were issued at 6 p.m. in the dining commons. In the cafeteria, the frosh learned the how and when of the button rhyme.

Entertainment, provided by the sophomore class, was enjoyed Tuesday evening by the sophomore and frosh classes. Wednesday, the juniors and seniors had their opportunity to fellowship with the frosh at an Ice Cream Extravaganza. An all-school picnic, sponsored by the Associated Men and Women Students, is scheduled for today.

Frosh collect ORU trash

The Swamp Stompers, ORU's eco-action club, sponsored a campus cleanup for the freshmen last Monday from 4:30 to 6 p.m. Thirty-five freshmen were divided into teams and sent out all over the campus with the promise of a steak dinner for the team which collected the most trash.

The students collected 414.25 pounds of garbage, everything from pop can lids to old mufflers. The top team, Tim Wittmann and Claudia Haney, collected 103 pounds and won the steak dinner.

Dave Markley, president of the club, commented, "I think it was a good way to start the year. If the efforts of these kids get the other kids to at least stop throwing the trash down, it will be worth it."

The club is sponsored by Jack Wallace, Dean of Men, who offered the steak dinner prize.

Roberts visits Nixon White House

(Continued from page 1) our Titan basketball program last year. He told me he hoped to visit our campus. The President sees a great contribution to be made by private universities because they can enforce rules and regulations not possible on state campuses."

"I left a portfolio of materials about the University with the President and received an inscribed Bible from him, which will be placed in the University archives."

Finance class inaugurated

Oral Roberts University has inaugurated a one-hour pass/fail course in personal finance. The course is designed to give students the basic information they need to deal with their individual financial problems. The course covers such things as income tax, obtaining a loan, proper uses for a bank, life, health, and automobile insurance, buying a home, investment information of various kinds, and wills.

It is designed to accommodate a large number of students. Enrollment for Survey of Finance (GEN 3001) is still open. Contact the registrar's office in the base of the Prayer Tower for more information or to enroll.

Did President Nixon and Roberts talk about politics or the fact that Roberts led the prayer at the Democratic National Convention?

"Yes," laughed Roberts. "The prayer for the Democrats was brought up. I asked Mr. Nixon if he could think of anyone who needed prayer any more than the Democrats . . . but I also added: and can you think of anyone that needs prayer more than the Republicans!"

"I found that the President is taking his reelection campaign very seriously and is not at all overconfident about a victory in November."

"I was impressed with the amount of dynamic activity surrounding the President's office. And even more so, that in spite of all the activity, he would take time out for a personal conversation."

"At the close of our conversation, we prayed with each other. The President prayed for my ministry and work at the University, and I prayed for him in his position of responsibility."

"It is a good feeling to know that our President is a man who believes in prayer," concluded Roberts.

ORU alumni receive honors

Six ORU alumni have been selected by the Alumni Association of Oral Roberts University to be included in the 1972 edition of Outstanding Young Men and Women of America. They are Shirley F. Folsom, Tallahassee, Florida, Hans Bratterud of Oslo, Norway, and Gary Sulander of Tulsa, all 1968 graduates; Brian P. Gelercher, Overland Park, Kansas, a 1969 graduate; Terry Law of Canada and Clifton Taulbert, Tulsa, both '71 grads.

Outstanding Young Men and Women of America honors men and women alumni 21 to 35 years of age who have demonstrated excellence in their chosen field and have distinguished themselves in one or more aspects of community and professional life.

Orchestra needs string players

The University Symphony Orchestra has resumed rehearsal, with Donald Robinson, a new Oral Roberts University faculty member, conducting. Rehearsals are Tuesday and Thursday from 4:10 to 5:40 p.m. and Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m. Robinson urges all students with previous string-playing experience on the high school or college level to contact him in the Music Department.

During Saturday's heavy rains, 500 students moved from the crowded Hi-Rise residences to the new $1.7 million Twin Tower dorms. A natural gas explosion on Tuesday injured four Tulsa construction workers, one critically, and damaged glass in first floor windows on the men's side. Damage estimates run as high as $80,000.

Netters add two champs

The ORU tennis squad, coached by Bernis Duke, will feature an international look again this year, with the addition of two more foreign champions.

The new men are Carlos Puigmiguel, former Junior National Champion of Spain and Subrik Mukerjea, who played on a junior national doubles team in India.

Joining these capable newcomers are veterans Erik Ulleberg of Oslo, Norway, last year's number 2 man; Mladen Tonicic, from Zagreb, Yugoslavia, who was seeded number 3 last season; Mario Pakozdi from Santiago, Chile, who held down the number 4 spot; and Robyn Gool, from Detroit, Michigan, who was seeded number 5 as a freshman last year.

In addition to these strong returning men, the Titans will also benefit from the services of Kiyo Tanabe, who lost only one match as a freshman two years ago. Tanabe spent last season playing on the Australian and European Amateur Circuits, and should be in great shape as he rejoins the Titans this year.

Coach Duke, whose squads have compiled a 118-15 record over the last five years commented that the highlight of last year was a 3-3 tie with East Texas State, the team that went on to win the national championship. "It was the only tie we've ever had," mused Duke. "We were rained out in the middle of the match."

Intramurals commence

The intramural program at Oral Roberts University is designed to give its participants physical activity, companionship, and planned recreation.

This year the women's program has been improved to run concurrently with the men's. The first sport will be flag football which will start September 18.

Other sports include swimming, table tennis, badminton, wrestling, track, basketball, tennis, softball, and volleyball. Besides the team sports, individual tournaments in golf, pool, and chess are scheduled.

When asked of the outlook for this year's program Mike Ash, co-ordinator, replied, "The intramural program is going to be the best program that ORU has had yet. We are improving."

Kiyo Tanabe

Duke went on to list some of the top teams in the area: Tulsa University, East Texas, West Texas, and Arkansas. He modestly omitted one team from the list, his own squad, the ORU Titans.

Titan Talk . . .

by Vickie D. Morgan

The following announcement may be greeted with horror, astonishment, surprise, or even apathy on the part of the Oracle readers. Allow me to introduce myself—Vickie Morgan, the first woman sports editor at ORU!

No doubt there will be those of you who think, perhaps, that a woman cannot handle the writing, editing and ordinary hard work that a sports editor goes through. I hope my work this year will erase those thoughts from your mind.

I know what I'm getting into. (However, so far this has not discouraged me.) During all four of my years as a reporter I have worked to some extent with sports and with sports editors. Enough said about the past; now on to the present and the future!

This column will appear every other week and will be written by me. Dan Presley, last year's sports editor, began TITAN TALK and I thought it was an intelligent (perhaps even bright) idea to keep a "good thing going."

The sports page (or pages, as the case may be) will be changed slightly. I'm going to include more about intramurals—women's as well as men's—and I plan to include stories concerning the women's volleyball and basketball teams. (That's right, sports fans, ORU has intercollegiate women's teams!) Last year, even though they played many games, ORU's "whole women" were rarely mentioned. I desire to "right that wrong" and make sure womankind (or anyway, these teams) receives equal representation on these pages.

Soccer, baseball, basketball, golf, and tennis will continue to be on these pages at every opportunity. I hope also to include more feature articles on the outstanding ORU athletes.

In closing, I wish to express my disappointment and extend my regrets to Sam McCants and the Titan basketball team on the ruling by the NCAA that disqualifies McCants from the team this year. However, the NCAA did rule to allow him to practice with the team this season and receive financial assistance. McCants was expected to start as guard opposite All-American Richard Fuqua this season. Until next time . . . Hang in there, Sam!

A new soccer field, in development for the past six months, will be ready for the first home game against Rockhurst on Saturday, September 23. Situated on campus just east of the tennis courts, the field will provide close access to the games for the ORU student body.

Joining John Casanova this year on the coaching staff as assistant coach is Dave Bates, a former ORU standout, currently playing with Tulsa International. Dave possesses a valuable knowledge of the game and inspires enthusiasm in his players and will be a definite advantage to the soccer program this year. Also to add to the program, new experienced players will join the team this year to off-set the loss of last year's senior talent.

Hap Gregg, a transfer student from Randolph-Macon College in Virginia, and Dub Ambrose, who came to ORU last spring from the University of Texas, will both add height and experience to the forward line and midfield. And Phil Pascarella, a transfer from Syracuse, N.Y., with more than 15 years of experience may well be the most talented player ever to come to ORU.

This year, for the first time, several members of the team returned a week prior to the beginning of school to get an early start for the coming season. The Titan booters open the season today, playing in a 2-day tournament at Winfield, Kans., hosted by St. John's College. The team's schedule has been stretched to 15 games this year (including the tournament) with possibly more additions.

Last Saturday the Titans made a fine showing in a pre-season exhibition against the Tulsa Grasshoppers, an amateur team comprised mostly of European players. Rookie goalie Ken Braaten held the opposition to only one goal, while transfer Hap Gregg scored from the center-forward position to leave the game tied 1-1 at the half. Later in the game, second-year player Gail Letterle, rushing in from the right wing towards the goal, headed in a fine cross kick from left wingman, Phil Pascarella, to put in the winning tally and wrap up the scoring as the Titans held on to take the game 2-1. In a second game the ORU second string came through to tie the Grasshoppers' B team 3-3.

Other returning kickers are Mitch De Zeeuw, Alieu Fye, Norm Krier, Brad Stevens, and co-captain Doug Techanchuk. Other fine players joining the team this year who will give the team more depth than in previous years are David Nine, Dean Gaston, Al Adan, and freshman Bob Spuler.

Dumas aids extramurals

by Ruth Figi

"This year is a whole new story! The thing that we are trying to develop in this department is extramurals," said Peggy Dumas, ORU Physical Education teacher. "Extramurals is playing other schools. We ask them to come here, or we go there to play them. I'm really interested in this area," Ms. Dumas explained, "because as long as I have been in this state, ORU has never really had extramurals."

Intramurals are played on campus with teams from your own university. "These can be very successful," said Ms. Dumas, "and maybe in the future we can do this."

This year the Health Resources Center will be open evenings for general school use. "We had a lot of problems last year with the facility being used by basketball. Now, I'm a 100% for basketball," laughed Ms. Dumas, "but it was almost impossible for other kids to play and use the court."

This year ORU is a member of the Oklahoma Federation for Athletic Recreation Activities for Women. "Last year we weren't even a member of the OARSEW," said Ms. Dumas. "What it means is that we can go to 'Sports Day.' You must be a member to go, and last year was the first year of ORU membership. So that's a first step. We are automatically invited now."

A sports day is held in the state for team sports such as basketball, softball, and field hockey. Then there are individual sports days for tennis, fencing, etc. "Everything runs in seasons," Ms. Dumas said. "Right now, colleges in the state are working on field hockey and volleyball. After Christmas break, basketball is the concentration and that sports day will be February or March. Track and field sports day is in April, and the softball is in May. We will design our extramural program to fit the season so that we'll have other schools to play."

"Extramurals are for everyone on campus, whether you are a PE minor, major, or in music or theology!" said Ms. Dumas.

Titans start work-outs

Fundamentals and defense are key words for the ORU baseball players as they go through fall practice. In fact, according to baseball Coach Herb Dallis, "We spend most of our time on fundamentals." Two objectives were cited by Coach Dallis for the fall practice sessions: working on defense and fundamentals plus looking at new players in order to evaluate how much they could help the team in the spring games.

It seems almost a cliché to say that the team looks stronger this year, but on paper, such seems to be the case. Lost from last year's 33-18 ball club is only one player. On the other end of the spectrum, the Titans have gained four new players: a pitcher, a catcher, an infielder, and an outfielder. In his matter-of-fact-manner, Coach Dallis stated "This is the best team talentwise we've had since I've been here."

Experience could be a strong point this year, as most of the players now in the spring drills are seniors. Coach Dallis, in his fourth year at ORU, started seven freshmen his first year who have developed into his seven starting seniors of this year. It is no wonder that Coach Dallis described the team as a "mostly senior ball club." After a shakey start last year, the Titans came on to win their last ten games in a row to bring their record to a 33-18. The playing experience of the seniors and the proven comeback power should produce a more mature team which will make the most of the fall drills in preparation for the spring season.

Fisher teaches new offering, Religious Psych

Why do men worship God? Why is religion more important to some people than to others? What role does religion play in man's psychology?

These are some of the questions Dr. Harold Fischer will be discussing in a special evening course on the "Psychology of Religion" offered this fall. The class will meet from 7:15 to 9:30 p.m. for 12 Mondays beginning September 18.

"Originally, the word psychology was used to refer to the 'study of the soul.' How strange this seems, since so many of our psychologists today completely ignore the spiritual side of man!" commented Dr. Fischer in discussing the course. "I believe that religion and psychology are basic and vital to each other. We will be building a bridge between these two areas in our course this fall."

Dr. Fischer, Professor of Religious Education, begins his seventh year of teaching at ORU this fall. A pastor for 15 years, he holds degrees from Southern California College, Texas Christian University, and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary. He has over 25 years of experience in counseling and teaching on the college level.

He will be assisted in the course by his wife, Marie, who is Director of Counseling here.

Students will have an option of taking the course for academic credit or auditing. Fees will be assessed accordingly. For information regarding registration interested students may call 743-6161, extension 490. There are no prerequisites to the course.

Professor of Music R. D. Catanzariti will give his first vocal recital on the ORU campus Sept. 18 at 8 p.m. in the Timko-Barton recital hall.

Conductor Catanzariti to give vocal recital

R. D. Catanzariti, Assistant Professor of Music and Director of Choral Activities at ORU, will present a vocal recital on September 18, 1972, at 8 p.m., in Timko-Barton Recital Hall.

Though performing numerous times throughout the semester each year as conductor of the various campus choral groups, this will be Catanzariti's first vocal recital on the ORU campus. "Though conducting holds my deeper interest and demands the major portion of my time, I truly enjoy performing vocally as time permits," he said.

Catanzariti received his Bachelor of Music degree at Capital Conservatory of Capital University in Columbus, Ohio, and his Master of Music degree at Louisiana State University while working for 2 years as graduate assistant to the Head of the Opera Department and performing tenor leads in major opera productions.

Catanzariti then spent a year at University of Arizona in pursuit of the Doctor of Musical Arts degree. He also attended Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N.Y., studying with Madame Josephine Antoine, Julius Huehn, and John Maloy.

Some professional credits include five summers in professional summer stock, and a summer's performance in the Aspen Chamber Choir, a professional singing group of 24 voices, besides 9 years of full-time university teaching.

Catanzariti's latest endeavors include two National Association of Teachers of Singing workshops at the University of Northern Colorado in Greeley, and at Salem Academy in Winston-Salem, N.C.; 3 hours' graduate credit at UCLA under the leadership of contemporary choral greats Roger Wagner, Robert Shaw, Howard Swan, and Paul Salomonovich, and just recently, he has been named conductor of the Tulsa Philharmonic Chorus.

Clubs seek members during Rush Night

Students will have an opportunity to become acquainted with the various ORU organizations and clubs Sept. 20, when the annual Rush Night is held in the south pie of the cafeteria at 7 p.m.

Rush Night, under the direction of David Markley, Associated Student Body vice president, will allow representatives of the 25 campus organizations to answer questions from students concerning the purposes and aims of the clubs. The organizations will also have displays and will be ready to accept new members. All students who are interested in becoming actively involved are invited to attend.

Students who are interested in starting a new club should contact Markley in room 804 (new dorm) or call 749-9256. All new and chartered clubs must register with the Student Senate by Oct. 1 to be officially recognized.

Some of the organizations that will be represented are the American Association of Evangelical Students (AAES), Biological Careers Club, Circle K, Swamp Stompers, Dactyology Club, French Club, German Club, HPE Club, Music Educators National Conference, Phi Beta Lambda (Business Club), Rotaract Club, Russian Club, Spanish Club, Student Education Association, Student Foreign Missions Fellowship (SFMF), Young Voters for the President, and Young Voters for McGovern.

Construction reroutes traffic

For the next month, ORU students and faculty will be forced to seek alternate exits from the University since Lewis Avenue, between 71st and 81st Streets, is closed.

Frank Chile, assistant resident engineer, said the State Highway Department is closing that stretch for 30 days "to make intersection modifications and to rebuild South Lewis into four lanes."

The entire project will take longer than a month, he said, "and we'll be working there off and on all winter. Lewis will be open most of that time. We wanted to get as much of the work done as possible before bad weather so Lewis would not have to be closed much during the winter."

Traffic will be detoured off Lewis to Harvard.

WELCOME STUDENTS!

This is our formal welcome to you, the students of ORU. We want you to feel free to stop in whenever you have a scholastic or non-scholastic need. We have a wide variety of books, cards, cosmetics, and "just-for-fun" notions.

Whether you're a buyer or a browser, you're always welcome. Stop in to see us soon!
