ORAL ROBERTS UNIVERSITY, TULSA, OKLAHOMA

SEPTEMBER 29, 1972

"J. B.," by Archibald MacLeish, will be the first production of the ORU drama season, October 5-7. Clay Howell, Nickels; Hal Warfield, Zuss; and Bob Butcher, J. B. rehearse a dramatic moment of the play, which is under the direction of Raymond Lewandowski and Jeanie Taylor, associate director. Tickets are free to students with their ID card and may be picked up at Mabee Center ticket office.

Improvements soon coming

DAIRS draws complaints

"I can't ever find an empty carrel!" "My tapes are always scheduled at bad times."

These are typical of the complaints Dr. William Jernigan, Vice President of Learning Resources, frequently receives.

Dr. Jernigan concedes that there are problems with the DAIRS this year, but he adds, "These are the problems we have anticipated for several years." Because of increased enrollment, it is difficult for the present system to handle the extra burden. However, help is on the way.

Several color video stations and ten audio only stations are soon to be added. Nevertheless, there may still be some problems. This, Dr. Jernigan explains, is where students can help.

"A large number of carrels are available throughout the day if students would budget their time," Jernigan comments. Between 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. is an ideal time to view tapes. Students are also urged to use empty class rooms on the second floor of the LRC for individual or small group viewing. Group viewing not only alleviates the crowded conditions in the library, but also has significant education value. Students have a chance for discussion and interaction while the material is still fresh.

Although he would not be specific, Jernigan also said, "There will be considerable relief on the system when the new dorms are finished."

Dr. Jernigan invites students with serious schedule problems to come talk with him.

Oracle implements distribution policy

The Oracle is being distributed in the lobbies of the dormitories late on Friday afternoons. Commuters may pick up their newspapers in the campus post office lobby. This new distribution policy will enable students to receive their student newspaper sooner than if they were distributed through the mail box.

Subscriptions are $3 per semester. Students have already paid this charge in their student activity fee.

Elections reslated

Markley desires voter involvement

Twenty-four students filled out petitions for office and readied their speeches, only to find an audience of some 30 students, mostly their own friends, at Monday's primary election speeches. All freshman offices and the treasurers' offices for the rest of the classes are open.

"Primary speeches were canceled on the spot, as will be all elections until the candidates have a chance to present their ideas and goals to all of their constituents," said Dave Markley, Associated Student Body Vice-President and election chairman.

In an attempt to allow all students to hear the campaign speeches, a required attendance assembly of all freshmen will be held Monday, Oct. 2, at 11 a.m. in Zoppelt Auditorium. Class meetings for sophomores, juniors, and seniors will be held at the same time in LRC rooms 235, 236, and 237.

Rescheduled voting for the primary elections will be Tuesday, Oct. 3, on the second floor of the LRC from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

General election speeches will be Thursday, Oct. 5, at 11 a.m. in Zoppelt Auditorium. Voting for the general elections will be Friday, Oct. 6, on the second floor of the LRC.

"It seems the Senate, originally created as a dynamic force for communication and action between the student body and a administration, is stagnating due to lack of student involvement," said Markley. "How can students continue to shell-out more than $2,500 in scholarships annually to a group voted into office by less than 30 percent of the student body."

National test dates set for teachers

College seniors preparing to teach school may take the National Teacher Examinations on any of the four different test dates announced today by Educational Testing Service, a nonprofit, educational organization which prepares and administers this testing program.

New dates for the testing of prospective teachers are: November 11, 1972, and January 27, April 7, and July 21, 1973. The tests will be given at nearly 500 locations throughout the United States, ETS said.

Results of the National Teacher Examinations are used by many large school districts as one of several factors in the selection of new teachers and by several states for certification or licensing of teachers. Some colleges also require all seniors preparing to teach to take the examinations. The school systems and state departments of education which use the examination results are listed in an NTE leaflet entitled Score Users which may be obtained by writing to ETS.

On each full day of testing, prospective teachers may take the Common Examinations which measure their professional preparation and general educational background and a Teaching Area Examination which measures their mastery of the subject they expect to teach.

Prospective teachers should contact the school systems in which they seek employment, or their colleges, for specific advice on which examinations to take and on which dates they should be taken.

The Bulletin of Information for Candidates contains a list of test centers, and information about the examinations, as well as a Registration Form. Copies may be obtained from college placement officers, school personnel departments, or directly from National Teacher Examinations, Box 911, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N.J. 08540.

Grubb builds apartment units

An 85-unit apartment complex with large units will be built by Howard C. Grubb on a 19-acre site on the east side of Lewis Avenue at 73rd Street.

The one-story complex is to cost $3.5 million and will have rents of $700 monthly for two bedroom units and $900 monthly for three bedrooms.

As yet unnamed, the complex will have a parklike atmosphere with malls and landscaping by Pat Manhart, landscape architect.

Each unit will have one or two atriums which are open areas within the units similar to those in Roman houses. Grubb said he plans to use the latest electronic equipment to discourage burglars. A guard and dogs may also be used.

Telephones...

ASB President refutes editorial

Dear student:

This letter is to correct an editorial in the Oracle which presented only limited, biased facts and objectives of a Student Senate action concerning telephone money. While an editorial is inherently opinionated, I am concerned that the Oracle failed to include an objective report about the matter. The intent of this letter is to present the other side of the story.

First, the basic figures: The four executive officers will receive $5.25 (cost of a black phone) plus tax per month. Other members and standing committee chairmen will only receive half of that amount. All initial deposits and other charges are not taken from student funds. This amounts to approximately $21.00 (plus tax) for each executive officer and approximately $10.50 (plus tax) for all other Senate members for each semester. This total reflects less than one percent of the total Senate budget and 39 cents per student per year. Also, 21 of 25 Student Senate members receive no other scholarship from student moneys for the work they do.

Secondly, the reasons: For any organization to be efficient, there must be effective communication among the members of that organization. Since not all members live in the same dorm, there is only one efficient communicative link—the telephone. The student body is the recipient of the benefits provided by an efficient Senate.

Telephones are also necessary to contact the University administration regarding matters of immediate concern to the student body. Long-distance communication involving campus entertainment is faster and less expensive when you can dial direct rather than using a pay phone or a billing number as has been done in the past.

Student Senate minutes containing information on the telephone allocations were posted for public reading on the bulletin boards. We also expected an objective report from the Oracle staff, for the issue was definitely not hidden from them.

I am also interested in the details of the "straw poll" as mentioned in the editorial. Were they presented only the biased views of the author or the complete story? At times, some people are inclined to overlook the positive side of an issue so that they can magnify the negative side in an attempt to emerge in the role of a crusader.

I therefore ask you to ignore the attempts of any student who dwells on the negative side only and endeavors to tear down instead of build up. As a Senate, we attempt to attack problems positively and we hope that you would trust us rather than those who prefer a negative view.

—Chris A. Busch, ASB President

Senate Soundings

Schram named chairman

Student Senate made several appointments during last Monday morning's meeting. Jan Schram was appointed chairman of the Social Functions Committee. Judy Hammond was named corresponding secretary and Brian Stalwick was named parliamentarian. Other committee appointments were postponed until more students submit applications.

Two other matters were referred to committees. The possibility of required attendance for election speeches was referred to the Election Committee. The Food Committee received a suggestion concerning money cards for use in the SUB. Students could purchase the cards for a specified amount of money and receive that same amount of credit in the SUB.

On-campus voter registration is planned for October 2. Students who wish to vote in Oklahoma in the presidential election and who are not yet registered should plan to do so on October 2. The League of Women Voters is sponsoring the registration.

Students react to Oracle policy, senate telephone bill legislation

Monroe mocks Ms.

Dear Editors:

An innovation in the Oracle's policy has disturbed me—the use of Ms. as the feminine title—and I have found it unbecoming to the ministry of the University.

Primarily, this practice denies the female's womanhood, and deprives her of generally accepted standards of social etiquette. It makes her part of a mass, undistinguished from others with differing roles, feelings, personalities, and destinies. In short, she is no longer a person, but an object. Is this in the interests of ORU? Is not the great concern of this campus for people—their salvation and healing? Love for a person, not as an object or as part of an ethnic group, but for a person as a person should be our aim. To me, Ms. just doesn't make it.

Removal of Ms. from your columns could allay the fear that recognition of role differentiation among women breeds mistrust, impersonality, and inequality. It doesn't. Besides, God has not given us the spirit of fear.

Secondarily, recognition of a woman's marital status is a great aid to a man's proper action socially.

Perhaps St. Paul's words could guide you in your decision concerning this policy: "Let love be without dissimulation. Abhor that which is evil; cleave to that which is good. Be kindly affectioned one to another with brotherly love; in honour preferring one another." Romans 12.9, 10.

Donald C. Monroe

Soph. veep disagrees

Dear Editors:

On Monday, students received an 'Open letter from Student Senate' in their mail boxes. As a member of Student Senate I would like to make it clear that I do not condone or agree with the letter; I do not condone or agree with the method used in

'Butterflies', 'Doc', 'Dictator' praised

Editors' note—In an effort to be more enjoyable and helpful to the ORU student body, the Oracle now offer a weekly movie review column. The articles will consist of the personal opinion of the reviewer and in no way presumes to recommend films on other authority.

Butterflies Are Free comes across as great entertainment with Goldie Hawn in her finest role and Edward Albert distinguishing himself as the blind but independent next-door neighbor. The film has the traditional boy-meets-girl storyline, but is freshened by the new personalism found in a few films today. It is well worth the two dollars. Rated PG—Loew's Delman.

What's Up Doc? Everything about this film is overly familiar to the point of boredom. Most of the action is predictable. The characters are cardboard, and in most cases overacted or merely walked through by the performers. Yet Doc has something that holds you to your seat. It's entertaining, funny, and light. Rated G—Southroads Mall Cinema.

writer, and producer. While watching the film, I wondered if his type of comedy would appeal to a young audience, but when the lights came up, so did an ovation led by a youth-dominated audience. Chaplin will never be forgotten. Rated G—Parklane.

Musicians unite

Making a "joyful noise unto the Lord" is a good thing, and the new ORU Music Ministry plans to do just that. Under the directorship of Chuck Bell, the spiritual life department hopes to refer interested musicians to the needy ministries and to improve available talent.

Anyone who is interested in performing should contact Bell or the advisor for a particular ministry and fill out an information sheet. Openings are available for both men and women and all students are encouraged to help with this new ministry.

distributing this letter; nor did I ever condone or agree with the legislation in question.

I feel that Senate members should not have their phone bills paid, in whole or in part. Even though the amount per student would be small, to take $750 from the students' activity fee for Senate members' telephone bills is a discredit to Senate when this money could be put to use in such a way as to benefit most of the students instead of a select group.

The letter spoke of "any student who dwells on the negative side only." Concerning the telephone money for Senate, I don't feel there is any positive side to the issue, and therefore I don't feel Senate has any valid reason to use the term 'negative.'

One thing that continues to puzzle me is on which public bulletin boards the minutes were posted. Having checked the boards every week in the WHR and the MHR, the most recent Student Senate minutes I found posted were dated May 9, 1972.

I want to state again that I do not want to be connected to the Senate letter in any way. I want the students to realize that a few of the Senate members feel as I do, even though the great majority of Senate support the telephone legislation.

From folk to gospel

Kathie Epstein sings for the glory of God

by Rachel Wagner

To capture the essence of Kathie Epstein is to hear her talk in a happy mixture of fresh words and infectious laughter, to see her pretty brown hair and matching eyes, to feel the energy of her Christian vitality. ORU was witness to Ms. Epstein's dynamism and Christian commitment as she sang "Amazing Grace" for Governor George Wallace in a recent chapel.

Kathie was Maryland's entry in the 1971 America's Junior Miss competition in Mobile, Ala. There she came to the attention of singer Anita Bryant, a hostess in the contest, and her husband, Bob Green. Kathie recalls, "Instead of Anita going up to the girl who won the contest she came up to me and said, 'Just praise the Lord, Kathie, if you had won we'd never have gotten to know each other.'" As they talked, they realized they had the same plans for the summer—to attend the Jerusalem Conference on Biblical Prophecy. For the past year Kathie has traveled with Anita, studied with her, baby sat for her, and served as her personal secretary.

While she maintained this career, she was also pursuing another career in singing. For three years she and her sister Michele sang with four boys in a professional folk group called "Pennsylvania Next Right." But Kathie remembers that "every chance we got for a recording contract the Lord always closed the door.

"The Lord then gave me a new song; he changed it from folk to gospel and since that was founded in God it was eternal and would always last. I only have one life and I want to live it and sing it in a way that will be lasting." Noticing her ability, Green became her manager last year and she has been on singing engagements since then. Although she loves singing folk songs she feels that by doing gospel songs, she can touch people not only musically, but spiritually. The extent of her musical training has been three voice lessons at ORU.

Kathie accepted Christ when she was eleven after seeing a Billy Graham production, "The Restless Ones." Working on a beach mission in Virginia two summers ago she realized her need for a deeper commitment to Christ. She wanted to be 100 percent for Jesus. "I want to have Jesus in me so other people can see Him in me."

Only two weeks before school started did the Lord tell Kathie she was to go to school, which came as quite a surprise to her. Singing engagements were already scheduled and she was satisfied with working for Anita, so she told the Lord that if He wanted her here, He'd have to get her here because she just didn't want to go back to school.

Now a voice major and a piano minor, Kathie says that school is almost a relief for her Traveling with Anita Bryant, Kathie Epstein has had many opportunities to witness for the Lord. The ORU student body was first introduced to Kathie in chapel on Sept. 13, when she was able to minister to Governor George Wallace with "Amazing Grace" and "The New 23rd Psalm."

because this is the first time she has been in one place for a whole month in a year.

So many wonderful and unexpected events flowed from Kathie's decision to enter the Junior Miss Pageant. One of the highlights was singing at the Republican National Convention in Miami several days before school started. She remembers that when the White House phoned, her father thought it was a crank call! She sang the moving gospel spiritual, "Amazing Grace." Kathie has also been featured in Ingenu and Moody Mouthly and has made a television commercial for Kraft.

Kathie says as far as her career is concerned, she will do "whatever the Lord wants."

Mud roads, strange food mark Mexico trip

Pushing a Volkswagen through the mud, eating tortillas and beans, witnessing at a penitentiary and in villages, and enjoying the fellowship of charismatic Catholics—that's only an introduction to a one-month missionary tour to Mexico by seven Oral Roberts University students last summer.

Dawn Erickson, Cal Garcia, Mike Hair, Priscilla Hill, Bev Lemons, Lynn Quiggie, and Sharon Perry joined Dr. Alice Rasmussen, chairman of the Department of Modern Languages, and missionary workers, Mr. and Ms. Gale Cisneros, Ford Wilson, and Cliff Jones, evangelist for missionary travels that took them to Monterrey, Mexico City, Puebla, Oaxaca, and Veracruz.

The trip began July 18, and it was in Monterrey, the first stop in Mexico, that any glamor of the missionary's life vanished. At Toluca, a colony of Monterrey, a three-day rain had left dirt roads muddy. When the Volkswagen in which some of the team members were riding began to spin in the mud, Mike, Dawn, and Sharon found themselves outside pushing—and smiling through the mud. When that part of the work was done and they arrived at their destination, a small village, they went door-to-door passing out tracts and inviting people to the service.

Mexican food was new to most of the team members. Beans were served with every meal, and tortillas took the place of bread. A delicacy called mole (pronounced molay) was served to them. Mole consisted of chicken and a sauce made of chocolate, bananas, nuts, raisins, tomatoes, and hot pepper. Since the water was impure they all drank Coca-Cola or rice water (a sweet drink that is something like lemonade). The team had been told to avoid fresh tomatoes or lettuce. But at one church they were served a meal of all the food they were to avoid. Praying, "Lord, sanctify this food to our bodies," they ate, and experienced no bad after-effects.

The trip was financed through $1,200 from the World Action Committee, services in the Tulsa area and in Illinois, and special gifts from interested friends.

The team visited the Basilica, Avenue of the Dead, Pyramid of the Sun and Moon, Palacio de Bellas Artes, the Wycliff Bible Translators, the library building in Mexico City, and many other interesting places.

But the trip was far more than a sight-seeing trip. Sharon said, "If I learned anything from this trip, I learned that besides claiming Jesus as Lord we must also treat Him as Lord." And the whole team agrees that God is alive in Mexico.

Figlet's Finds

a column of real life humor

by Ruth Figi

I'm crushed! In grade school we learned there was no Santa Claus and now they tell me in college that Smokey the Bear is a myth! That's right. I'm quoting Dr. Thurman who said in our Science and Society class that it's good to have small grass fires, because otherwise you will eventually have big fires that will burn the whole forest down! He went into more detail than that, but the whole idea hit me like a falling sequoia. Instead of, "Only you can prevent forest fires" I guess the signs should say, "Come on Smokey, light a fire!"

* * *

I told Dr. Thurman about Ronald Taylor, an entomologist (you may have to grab Webster's off the shelf for that one) who spoke recently at the University of Minnesota. His topic? Bugs are very nutritious, and Professor Taylor wants us all to start eating them. I give him permission to eat all the mosquitoes in Minnesota, and then he can start on the Oklahoma crickets. Dr. Thurman said, "Well, John the Baptist ate grasshoppers!" Maybe so, but if Saga starts serving chocolate-covered June bugs I'll really turn in my meal ticket!

* * *

This week's theme seems to be Thurman, so I'll end with this final bit of wisdom from lecture notes I took in his class.

If I give a man a fish, he is fed for a day.

If I teach him to fish, he can feed himself for a lifetime.

See you next week, and I want to see this bumper sticker on all of the ORU cars.

"Keep our campus clean. Eat bugs."

Political bandwagon hits ORU

Massanari, Mayo head McGovern, Nixon clubs

STUMPING FOR NIXON—Mike Gibson, TU student, and Betsy Mayo, president of ORU's Young Voters for the President, are among a dozen young voters canvassing residents of Tulsa this weekend.

TU students Percy, Wallace discuss presidential elections

Neil Wallace and Ray Percy will engage in an audience debate on Wednesday, October 4, at 8:00 p.m. in the Great Hall at Westby Center, University of Tulsa.

Percy, a sophomore at Tulsa University, is an articulate spokesman for Senator George McGovern and has been quite active in the Tulsa area taking on many Nixon supporters before hostile audiences.

Wallace, a first-year law student at Tulsa University, is a former leader of the conservative youth movement, Young Americans for Freedom, in New York State. The 22-year-old law student has won several speaking and debating awards and is now

Marching band visits campus

Recent visitors to the ORU campus were members of the 230-piece marching band from the University of Houston, Houston, Tex. Under the direction of James Matthews, conductor, the bandsmen performed for the Houston vs. University of Tulsa football game last Saturday. They chose to visit ORU as a point of interest while in Tulsa.

working with the youth arm of the Re-Elect the President Committee in Tulsa.

Both speakers feel this is an excellent opportunity for members of the Tulsa student community to hear the salient issues in this year's presidential election and to participate in the exchange of ideas and discussion.

Inbody reviews 'Rise of Ethnics'

Dr. Paul Inbody, chairman of the Behavioral Science Department, will review The Rise of the Unmeltable Ethnics by Michael Novak, October 9, as part of the Tulsa City-County Library System's "Books Sandwiched In" program.

"Books Sandwiched In," noon-time reviews at Central, is sponsored by the Friends of the Library. Scheduled on Mondays from 12:10 to 12:50 p.m., BSI offers the best of current fiction and nonfiction in capsulized form during the lunch hour.

Wave the flag, blow up balloons, and glue a bumper sticker on your car, because Oral Roberts University is jumping on the political bandwagon.

"I could spend forever on all the issues, but I feel personally that George McGovern has been misunderstood by the public," said Greg Massanari, 18, coordinator of the "Young Voters for McGovern" on the ORU campus.

"I've talked to several kids here who really don't know much about him. One said, 'I don't like McGovern because he's a communist.' Another said, 'I just don't like him; he looks crooked to me.' The students here must become more open to listen to his side and know how McGovern stands on the issues."

Greg, who is also a member of the ORU baseball team, will be coordinator between McGovern Tulsa Headquarters and the campus. "There were several seniors who couldn't take the position because of obligations to other clubs, and they chose me."

Greg helped ready the McGovern headquarters in Illinois for decorating and painting before coming to school this fall. "The campaign was just starting to get off the ground, and although I've always been interested in politics, this was the first time I actively wanted to take part."

By talking to several ORU students, Greg said he has learned much about Nixon in the past few weeks. "It hasn't changed my opinion on why I support McGovern, but it has helped me to see more clearly why others are for Nixon."

At Rush Night, about 40 students signed up to support the Democrats. "These were ones who said they would like to participate by presenting information to other students on campus," explained Greg. "Our group will serve two main purposes. Our biggest goal, I think, is not so much to push George McGovern, but to get the kids out to vote. We plan on bringing a public registrar out to campus a month before the election. Then, secondly, we want to present McGovern's views, why we support him, and what we believe in. We want to educate by letting people know what McGovern stands for. Our goal is to present the issues, and then hope people will vote for McGovern."

October 4 there will be a debate at Tulsa University between a black delegate to the National Democratic Convention and a Nixon supporter. "These two are topnotch guys, and it should be really interesting!"

"I don't think there is any doubt that the Nixon supporters outnumber the McGovern supporters here at ORU, but I think there are a lot of people on campus who are kind of in-between, and don't know which way to go. These are the ones we hope to help see our side of the story . . . and those who are for Nixon, who don't know that much about McGovern!"

Sophomore Betsy Mayo is acting President for the "Young Voters for the President." "Kids were saying that the ORU ratio was 15 to 1 for Nixon. But on Rush Night we had 150 sign up, and there were around 50 for McGovern. That makes it 3 to 1 and though we have an advantage, it isn't going to be any duck soup. We're not being complacent by any means!"

How does Betsy feel about the President? "I'm not claiming he is perfect, because I don't think any president has been perfect and it will be a long time before we get one that is! People say he hasn't done everything he promised, but the Liberal-Democratic Congress killed everything he proposed. It hasn't been easy for him. He's done a better job than anyone else could have, I think."

Republican "chairmen" will be elected for each of the four dorms, cochairmen to help them and committee chairmen. Betsy will be the head-overall, coordinating the activities between ORU and Republican Tulsa-Nixon Headquarters. "I'll catch it from both sides," she laughed.

In 1970, after winning a $10,000 scholarship in the Pepsi, "You've Got a Lot to Live" contest, Betsy really wanted to work in politics.

"My Republican representative for my district was Page Belcher. He canceled his other appointments and he and his wife attended the contest banquet with my mother and me and delegates from the 50 states, and their Congressmen. Only 10 percent of invited Congressmen showed

Booters come back, 5-0 after first season upset

by Gail Letterle

Rockhurst journeyed to ORU last Saturday for an afternoon soccer match, only to outclass ORU and hand the Titans their first upset of the season, 4-0. Rockhurst, ranked among the top twenty teams nationwide, displayed one of finest shows of soccer that the ORU spectators will see this year. Accuracy and finesse led Rockhurst to a shut-out completely dominated by them offensively. The ORU offensive line was unable to get by the Rockhurst defense the few times they did have possession of the ball. The rugged Titan defense got a physically tiring workout and put on a fine performance in spite of the four goals scored. Goalie Ken Braaton turned in another outstanding performance, withstanding a great number of shots, besides the goals.

Tuesday, the Titans turned the tide and shut out Southwestern Oklahoma College, 5-0. This time, ORU dominated the offensive role of the game with better passing than it has shown in the past. Alieu Fye opened the scoring, heading in a cross from Sunday Yakiah on the right side. Phil Pascarella kicked in a penalty shot for the second tally. Hap Gregg put in two goals and Dub Ambrose booted in one to round out the scoring. The Titan second string played a large period of the first half and they also held their own and dominated Southwestern.

The Titans now stand 4-1 on the season. Tomorrow, they travel to Enid, Okla., for a 2 p.m. game against Phillips University, and Tuesday they travel to Hesston, Kan., to meet another top-quality team at Hesston College.

Titan sports are in full swing! I've discovered recently that some students believe that only limited activity sportswise occurs on campus before basketball season opens. I desire to stomp that myth out of existence!

Basketball is by far one of my favorite sports. However, our outstanding soccer, baseball, golf, and tennis teams are not to be ignored. For too long these have lived in the shadow of basketball at ORU. For these teams to effectively represent ORU and to play to the best of their abilities, they need our support. Out of a student body of 1,800, approximately 100 students attended the soccer team's home debut last Saturday afternoon. They need more of us to cheer them on to victory.

Congratulations go to Dave Barr, ORU junior golfer, on the recent honor he received from his homeland. Barr has been selected to represent Canada on a four-man team in the World Amateur Cup matches Oct. 18-21 in Buenos Aires.

Barr and his fellow Canadians will compete with teams from all over the world for the Eisenhower Trophy in the eighth annual matches. Players were selected on the basis of their performance in four key tournaments. Barr missed three of them while representing ORU in the NCAA last spring. However, his course record of 64 and his runner-up finish in the Canadian Amateur won him a spot on the national team.

Also in the golf news this week is the signing of a letter of intent by Tom Graber, an outstanding junior golfer from Liberal, Kan. Graber won the Kansas South Central PGA Junior Championship in 1970, captured several medals in high school, and won the 1971 "Big I" tournament.

Again I want to encourage everyone to support all our Titans and when Dec. 4 and basketball opener rolls around, we will be ready!

Pickup service announced

As a service to Oral Roberts University students, Imperial Cleaners has announced the opening of an on-campus pickup station.

Located on the main floor of the Health Resources Center, the pickup station will be open from 4 to 6 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. One hour service will be available and there will be discount prices on all items. The prices will be posted.

This on-campus service will not only be of help to students without cars, but students with cars can save because of the discount prices and added convenience.

up, and many of these were only representatives of the Congressmen. Mr. Belcher kept saying, "We know you're going to win. We read your essay," and Ms. Belcher said to my mom, "Honey if Betsy doesn't win this thing, I know that it's been rigged!"

After that year, Betsy worked with an organization called Page's Pages. These women, in red uniforms, campaigned door to door giving out bumper stickers, match books, and finger nail files, compliments of Page Belcher! "Ever since then I have been working, like over Christmas holidays, at the Tulsa Republican headquarters. I also worked this summer."

Both clubs will concentrate on national elections, because, as Betsy said, "9 times out of 10, out here at ORU especially, just about everybody is from out of state and they aren't registered in Oklahoma, and could care less about our politics." The main goal of the Young Voters for the President is to "influence ORU students to vote for Richard Nixon for President." Betsy added, "Of course, any kids we could get registered out here is great, because there are no residency requirements here, except living in the state for two days!"

Activities for the Republicans? "We had youth from all over Tulsa working on a float for the Tulsa State Fair parade on Saturday—kids from TJ, TU, ORU, and the American Christian College. Tuesday night there is going to be a $1,000 a plate dinner. We don't get to attend the dinner," Betsy laughed, "but several of us from ORU will be able to hear the speaker who will be someone from the President's cabinet."

The Republicans will be doing canvassing, working in the fair booth, telephoning . . . and generally, all that headquarters needs the youth to do.

Betsy naturally wants more club members and said, "You don't have to be Republican. We have several Democrats for Nixon. Just be an ORU student, and be for Nixon . . . that's all!"
