Homecoming '74 plans form

Next Friday night the ORU community will view the disclosure of ORU’s 1974 Homecoming Queen and her court composed of sweethearts elected from each class. An impressive week of Homecoming events includes a musical concert, coronation of the queen, dinners, and a basketball game between ORU and Pepperdine.

Nichols appointed
OCPA director

Lynn M. Nichols, Oracle adviser, was appointed Senior College Director of the Oklahoma Collegiate Press Association last Saturday, at a meeting of the OCPA executive officers on campus. Nichols has been an active participant in OCPA activities for the last 3 years and has a broad background of professional journalism experience.

Nichols served as presentation editor of the Oil and Gas Journal before coming to Oral Roberts University. He will replace Tom Quade of Southeastern State and will hold his position until new officers and directors are elected at the 1974 OCPA spring convention.

ORU will host the convention which will bring more than 250 college journalists and advisers to Tulsa. Dan Carlson, Oracle editor, and Renee Colwill, Senate Communications Chairman and OCPA secretary, are convention coordinators for the event to be held in Mabee Center, April 19.

Conductor Catanzariti to debut

by missy howell

"A Psalm of Thanksgiving" is the concert that will be conducted by Tony Catanzariti in his debut with the Tulsa Philharmonic Orchestra and Chorus Monday. Featured in the chorus will be ORU’s 100-voice Concert Choir, as well as 60 other voices.

Mr. Catanzariti, Director of Choral Activities, has taught at ORU for 5 years. He conducts the Concert Choir, and began the Chamber Singers in 1971. The World Action Singers were under his leadership for 2 years, and he has been involved in the production of Oral Roberts television shows. Last year, he was given the position of Choral Director for the Tulsa Philharmonic. "When Sketch Henderson became the conductor, he felt the Philharmonic needed a chorus. He asked me, and I said I would be glad to do it," says Catanzariti.

Mr. Catanzariti has studied music under leading conductors in the United States such as Robert Shaw of the Atlanta Symphony, Roger Wagner of UCLA, Peter Paul Fuchs of the Baton Rouge Symphony, John Nelson of the Aspen, Colo., Music Festival and Fullilard School of Music, Margaret Hillis of the Chicago Symphony, Otto Werner-Mueller of the Yale School of Music, and Julius Herford, professor emeritus of the University of Indiana. Catanzariti has also been involved with production of Broadway musicals in New York.

"A Psalm of Thanksgiving" is based upon the lengthy 107th Psalm. Says Catanzariti, "I was looking for a work that would be a challenge but that would also be something the audience would enjoy. There is a line that is repeated throughout the work: 'Oh that men would praise the Lord for his goodness and for his wonderful works to the children of men!' We are not really very thankful. Even when everything has gone wrong, men have a lot to be thankful for. This composition is a vehicle to express our thanks for many things." Written by the American composer Randall Thompson, the work is not necessarily meant to celebrate Thanksgiving as a holiday, but seeks to emphasize the importance of giving thanks in everyday life.

Of ORU's music department Mr. Catanzariti says, "We have consistently attracted a more qualified student. My goal is for the choral department to be a leader in the choral music field, much as our basketball team strives to be one of the best in its field."

Tony Catanzariti will also conduct the Lubbock, Tex., Symphony Orchestra March 16.
EDITORIAL

Praise the Lord!

"Praise the Lord" is an expression much in vogue on our campus. For the benefit of new students and those who have managed to remain in ignorant bliss, we will explain the many ways this phrase may be used.

First, and perhaps the most frequent instance where "Praise the Lord" is appropriate, is when something good happens. It may be employed if your puppy has babies or if Saga serves cheese with the hamburgers.

Second, the phrase may be merrated (or even shouted) if something bad happens. If you stub your toe, or if your longest fingernail breaks, or if the XTros machine doesn't work, saying "Praise the Lord" keeps you from saying something less Christlike. And in the case of some weaker brothers, if might even keep them from taking the Lord's name in vain.

"Praise the Lord" is also handy when nothing is happening and you are at a loss for words. Moreover, it can especially be beneficial to you if uttered in the presence of a wing chaplain or other spiritual leader. And if you must speak to a large group of people, this phrase is always a good starter.

Although quickly becoming archaic, there is one last way to use "Praise the Lord"; when you want to give glory to God. This could be a response to answered prayer or merely an acknowledgement of His grace and great love. It is also useful in Psalms and hymns, but as mentioned before, this use is quickly fading. So as not to appear gauche, it is recommended that you avoid this last use entirely.

--ken

CATALYST

Energy-saving plans begin; Kenneren is new chairman

Implementation of energy saving on this campus is already underway. Student Senate's energy committee has gone through every building on campus and will make specific recommendations shortly. Along with this, a second Senate committee has been formed to meet with the faculty and administration concerning reconditioning and two-sided copying of syllabi whenever feasible.

This will not only save paper, but will also reduce the cost.

Cubs and organizations which failed to register with Senate are going to wish they had. We are going to have about $250 to award this spring. Deadline for entries for the Chug Award will be midnight March 31. For details contact Randy Stens, ASB Vice-President.

On behalf of ORU students, Senate plans to apply for membership in the National Institute of Student Governments. This is a nonprofit service organization whose activities involve workshops, speaker's bureau, surveys, archives, and general information gathering beneficial to student senate.

Look for better things from the Cultural Affairs Committee which has selected a new chairman, Rex Kenneren. Kenneren, a junior, already plans for his new role in student activities.

Dear Editor,

We are two men who are doing time here in Ohio in one of its prisons.

We would like to place an ad in your school newspaper and hope maybe to find someone to write to. It gets very lonely here and both of us receive no letters at all. It would mean much to us.

If the ad would cost anything we would pay for it. We aren't complete bums, just because we're doing time.

We are both serious-minded guys. This is also why we would like serious-minded replies.

If you would be so good to print this we would be so happy. Here's our name and we will answer all letters.

Robert Grahber

(Adr no. 33-165)

(Bob)- P. O. Box 57

Marion, Oh. 43302

Bill Ghindino no. 135-891

(Age 22)

P. O. Box 57

Marion, Oh. 43302

So if you could do this we would thank you, and if you can't print it or post it we will understand.

Thank you, also I will say thanks for Bill.

Dear Editor,

Riddle: What's green and soft and dies once a year with a few exceptions?

Answer: The grass.

The exceptions are the grass in front of the post office, the HRC, the Twin Towers, and behind the WWR which is unable to reseed itself due to constant persecution fr. in students and staff.

The grass in these areas is dead without hope of resurrection.

There are three ways of death. People who are fully aware of the fact that you kill off the grass as you fork along are the various couches it is used to the campus. It gets seemingly dead giving the campus back years earlier than wok. 10 yards less. If that's right for you, do it by all means.

This letter is an appeal to those people who don't realize the grass species comes a little closer to extinction on our campus each time they cut a corner or take a shortcut.

Some people rationalize their actions by saying, "Well, it won't hurt if I walk across the grass just this once." Then 3,000 people walk across the lawn "just this once," resulting in dead grass and a dirt trail.

Certainly, the grass is dead now, but this spring the sav grass will come up green and beautiful except where people have continued to walk on it.

Grass needs itself, however, and fill in these trodden areas if sidewalks again become the means of transportation.

A trivial matter? Perhaps. But, are we to ignore the little things we can rectify or to focus strictly on major ecology issues like the smog and the disappearing hills?

Think about it, pray about it, and come to me if you have any questions. If you want to become the Lord Mess, you've made me think of what we think of the grass at ORU.

Regard,

Jim Carbona

Box 1108 MHR 343

Rehrquist visits ORU

A recent visitor on campus was Justice William Hruby Rehrqust, of the U. S. Supreme Court. Justice Rehrquist was the speaker at the dedication of Tul- sa University's John Rogers Hall, new Law School building, on January 23, and visited the ORU campus before returning to Washington. He was accompanied by two Tulsa attorneys.

February 1, 1974

volume 9, number 14
Insight

Movie behavior puzzling

by Renee Colwill

Psychology majors get in on a lot of interesting facts. They analyze strange behavior and try to understand why people act the way they do. "It's some of the only people who understand the "associated student body" behavior during campus movies.

When the week is filled with books, exams, reports, teachers, working, getting acrobatic points, and too much studying, one might think that students may not find much to laugh about. But that isn't true when you attend ORU movies.

When a movie is funny, laughing and giggling is understandable. But what about the serious movies?

"Students make witty comments at other people's expenses," said junior Sarah Hellbrunner. "You're involved in the movie and enjoying it when kids will start laughing at the strangest scenes. I don't really understand it, but I guess it's just a release of tension. I think when a person is watching a movie he should know what to expect. If a scene is embarrassing, laughing at it only draws more attention to it and makes the movie more embarrassing."

"If kids have to laugh and be so embarrassed by certain scenes in movies, I think they should just go back to high school and try it all over again," said sophomore Darl Young.

Christianity makes us have certain moral attitudes. During a scene in which people's behavior is not what we believe is morally right, maybe we feel it is necessary to defend our moral standards. So we laugh at it.

Some students seem to find love scenes especially funny. While we don't see any "X"-rated movies here, some movies have scenes in them which embarrass students.

"It's something wrong with being embarrassed," said freshman Michele Epstein. "But we, especially as Christians, should have enough strength and control to accept the things we see. You wouldn't find many students at other campuses laughing at the scenes we do here."

"I have no objection to children in public places unless they're over 18," said ORU employee Nolan Grubb. "When I brought a student from another college to a movie here, I was really embarrassed that some of those kids were at this."

"My little sister was with me when Dr. Zhivago," said sophomore Ken Irby, "and she kept asking me, 'What's so funny?' Why do some of us laugh at strange times in movies? Research reveals that we will probably laugh to embarrass situations in which we are afraid to reveal our true emotions and show that we are moved."

Sue Bohling, sophomore, said, "Some people can't take a funny face value so they make crummy comments. They can't accept their own feelings so they laugh."

It is easy for us to laugh at reality, and often it is desirable. But it's not always fair to laugh around us when we keep them from enjoying a good movie.

"I think it's basically immature," said junior Barry Robb. "I can remember laughing at things like that when I was in eighth grade."

But this is college. Although it is good for our own moral convictions to be strong, real life does not often follow our rules and regulations. This doesn't mean we should justify actions we believe are wrong—even in movies. We should, however, be old enough and mature enough to accept things without laughing to cover our embarrassment. Don't let the comedies be coming. Then everyone can laugh together.

In the Know

Shower leave under cold

Editor's note: Got a problem? Need a question answered? Write to the ORU Oracle, Roberts University, Student Union or call 745-6161, ext 510 or 511.

by James Fitz

Q: Why is the water in the showers in the Men's High Rise cold most of the time? Also many times it trickles out instead of showering.

A: Collins Steele, Vice President of Energy Resources, explains: "I don't want to be negative, but I think the water was not hot. I had the men go and check it out and the water temperature has been over 100 degrees every time they read it."

"There are occasions, however, when the heat exchanger in the dorm might malfunction and cause water to be a little less hot than another day, depending on the number of showers and amount of usage."

"When the water doesn't come out, that's a different problem. There have been a few times when the city has cut off the water off (which affects the campus too). When this happens we have another line supplying us with water, but the volume is not adequate to cover everything. The students most affected are the ones on the higher floors. Lower floors would have small amounts of water, but more volume and pressure trickling to carry the water up to the higher floors."

"If someone finds that the water is not hot, he should let me know."

Q: When you change the oil in your car, where can you dump the old oil?

A: Tilting any liquids on campus such as gas, oil, grease, etc., is forbidden. (Campus Wide Parks & Traffic Regulations, section g.)

However, if you're desperate you can check with maintenance, the building behind Twin Towers dorm. I've been informed that there is a location just east of that building where they store their own oil in barrels, and you will be permitted to dump your oil nearby.
Reusser brothers 'always different'

by larry walker

In 1869 America was invaded by the Swiss, or at least by a man bearing the name of Reusser. He evidently brought his wife with him, for he begat a son. This son was called to be a minister of God to Illinois, Japan, and a small town in Indiana called Churubusco. The son, as his father before him, took root and flourished, begetting a family of 3 daughters, 6 sons, and his wife, making a total of 11 in the family.

Continuing in the tradition of their father, and his father before him, the young Reussers continued the process of invasion and conquest. In junior high and high school, the Reussers always represented a significant percentage of the student population. In sports the Reussers had become a tradition. "When will they ever end?" and, "Where do they come from?" were typical comments made by area high school teams.

ORU became involved with the Reussers when Karl Reusser arrived as a freshman in 1970. Little did the University realize that Karl was only the beginning. He went home at semester break and persuaded his brother Jack to attend ORU in the fall. Naturally, the third one, Tom, arrived the year after Jack came. The final assault came this past semester when freshman Hugh Reusser stepped onto the green grass of Oral Roberts University. ORU now boasts a full con-

BIGGEST EVER!

$63,000 LIQUIDATION SALE

ON MEN'S AND WOMEN'S FASHIONS

MEN

- Double-knit slacks Reg. $18.00 Now $4.50
- Spring Sportcoats 50% off
- Long and Short Sleeve shirts Reg. $10.00 Now $1.75
- Men's Shoes up to 75% off

WOMEN

- Girls' Tops and Battle Jackets 50% off
- Limited Selection of long and short dresses up to 75% off
- High fashion Shoes up to 75% off

Juilliard String Quartet to perform at Philbrook

Internationally distinguished Juilliard String Quartet will perform on the Concertime chamber music series Sunday at Philbrook Art Center Auditorium. The concert is slated to begin at 3 p.m.

Titled "the very model of modern quartet playing at its best," the Juilliard has celebrated its 25th anniversary with world tours and world-wide acclaim. Due to the high interest in this group, Concertime's Executive Director Robert Heckman reports that tickets may not be available at the door. Those desiring to attend who are not season members should contact Heckman at 956-7749 or the Arts Council of Tulsa for ticket information.

Ron Radford, classical and flamenco guitarist, will present Concertime's Saturday evening musicale for sponsor-donor club members tomorrow at Harwell.

Ring Day!
The ORU school ring representative will be on campus, February 5 on the second floor of the LRC, 10 a.m.-3 p.m.
Basketball in full swing

Seventy-five men's and women's basketball teams are now competing in ORU's intramural program. There are 53 men's teams and 22 women's.

Last week in men's action, Crimson Tide defeated Issy 71 to 45. Omega stomped the Flock 112 to 47, and the Disciples defeated Covenant 85 to 43. Potter's Clay beat Solid Rock 76 to 45. Finally, annimated the Zap Brusters 115 to 29, and Bailey's Brothers defeated Alliance 79 to 55.

Disciples II beat Nesoff Wef 72 to 26. Low Tide downed Youngblood II 69 to 25. The Monks edged Covenant 57 to 51, and King's Men defeated Ransomed 77 to 42. Solid Rock II pounded the Tijuana Woopie, 49 to 31. King's Men II beat Psalms 133 II 56 to 48; and Rase Bred defeated Psalms 133 III 63 to 52. Alliance II handled Issy 47 to 30; the Castra's whipped 8 lightweights, 56 to 18; Shaka's縠ntroune tWarchmen II, 107 to 20; and New Society took Shek'mash by 2 points, 52 to 50. Choose Few trampled the Neighborhood Children, 104 to 31; Youngblood outscored King's Men, 55 to 52; and Disciples II took the measure of Solid Rock II, 40 to 21.

Low Tide beat Psalms 133 II, 68 to 50, Nesoff Wef defeated Ransomed II, 32 to 17; Light House outlasted the Paven Boys, 59 to 49; and Covenant II canned Youngblood II, 40 to 30. New Society outscored Nicka, 63 to 53; the Watchmen beat Neighborhood Children, 61 to 42; Shakarian upset Sagta, 37 to 36; and Family II beat Omega II, 16 to 31.

George Gregory of the Disciples was in the highest single game scorer with 38 points. Other high scorers are Tim Cameron of the Faculty, 34; Phil Shelby of the Faculty, 35; and Ed Folly of the Neighborhood Children with 29.

Intramurals

J.V.'s crush Ren Lake

Hardly offering a "warm Tulsa welcome," the junior Titans crushed Ren Lake College last Sunday 106 to 79. With every player hitting double figures, the Titans took the top two spots of the visitors' full-court press for most layups and shot 59 percent for the night.

Led by Alvin Scott's total domination of lane activity, the Titans were never in danger. Their tight man-to-man defense held the visitors to 22 percent shooting in the first half and 33 percent for the game. Scott's 19 rebounds helped him out to a 52 to 44 edge on the boards. Contrary to the previous game, when David Tucker wowed the crowd with 9 straight 20-footers and finished with 31 points, every body was hot against Ren Lake. Eppley led the scoring with 26 points and was followed by Martin and Scott with 16 each. Hardworking junior Tim Reiterman and Tim Will had 14 points apiece.

Intramural Top 10

1. Crimson Tide = 168 pts.
2. The Family = 140 pts.
3. Disciples = 135 pts.
4. Ogden = 116 pts.
5. Bricklayers = 86 pts.
6. Faculty = 73 pts.
8. Rase Bred = 37 pts.
10. Choose Few = 34 pts.

Honorable Mention: Potter's Clay, Over-the-Hill Gang, Issy. and Psalms 133 I.

Titan's trounce Pan Am

Last Saturday night Titan fans witnessed a fantastic display of shooting as the ORU basketball team defeated Pan American University 107 to 50 at Mabee Center.

During the first half neither team could secure a comfortable lead. Pan Am's Bruce King, the nation's number three scorer, could not be stopped from pouring in the points. As the first half drew to a close, the Titans gained the upper hand in the contest 51 to 44.

ORU never trailed during the second half as Sam McCants turned out to be "Mr. Everything." McCants made 15 out of 30 shots—13 out of 19 in the second half—plus 4 free throws for 34 points to aid ORU in the victory. He also led the team in assists with 11. Bruce King finished with 44 points to be McCants for scoring honors.

Long Beach could pose problems

ORU's basketball team will play Long Beach State University of California tomorrow night at the Long Beach Arena. Long Beach is ranked high in the top 20 polls, and ORU would be sure to gain recognition by winning.

Last year Long Beach finished the season 26-1, won the Pacific-Cover Athletic Association conference title for the fourth consecutive year and placed third in the NCAA Western Region playoffs. This year the Yorkers has replaced Jerry Tarzian at head coach of the Forty-Niners. Also gone is Ed Ratcliffe, a two-time unanimous All-American guard, now with the Houston Rockets.

Two of Long Beach's star performers, 6-6 guards Michael Brandon and Michael D-7 forward Roscoe Pontecker, who had been ruled ineligible by the NCAA have now been ruled able to play. McDonald averaged 7.3 points last season and Pontecker averaged 9.3 points and 1.0 rebounds.

Other team members include 5-10 guard Rick Aberweg, who last year averaged 6.1 points and 5.3 assists, and 6-8 forward Leonard Gray who averaged 13.9 points and 7.1 rebounds. Cliffon Pontecker, a 6-8 freshman and brother of Roscoe, may also see action. For the first time last year, the Titans met the Pilots of Bowling Green State University of Ohio at Mabee Center. After a rebuilding last year which ended with a 13-13 record, Coach Pat Haley returns four starters who will all averaged in double figures.

Eddie Woods goes up for a rebound as ORU scalps Pan American 107 to 90. (Photo by Howard box)
Administrative structure undergoes changes

Major changes were made in the administrative structure of the University during the annual meeting of the Board of Regents. Mr. Bill Roberts has been named the Executive Vice-President for Construction, Building, and Grounds. Mr. Roberts will serve in conjunction with Dr. Carl Hamilton, Executive Vice-President for Academic Affairs; and Mr. Ron Smith, Executive Vice-President for Finance and Endowment, as the administrative executive committee of the University. These men must approve all purchase requisitions, work orders, and personnel requisitions.

Mr. Collins Steele, former Vice-President for Buildings and Grounds, has accepted a new position of Assistant Vice-President for Special Events and Energy Resources. In his new role, Mr. Steele will handle the large numbers of people who come to the campus for various events.

Effective at the beginning of this semester, Mr. Myron Peace began serving as Acting Chairman of the Physical and Educational Department and Mr. Sherrod L. Braxton, Jr., began serving as Acting Chairman of the Language Department. Mr. Jack Johnson and Dr. Alice Rasmussen, chairman of these departments, are beginning their sabbatical leaves.

A supplement with the set explains the history of the literary award. The set is a gift from Miss Lu Faye Dickson of Beaumont, S. C. It is valued at $160 but is "probably worth much more," says Mrs. Ruth Peel, head of cataloging.

According to Mrs. Peel, criticism of literature is one thing students are looking for. "It will be very useful to the students. The English department will also value it because so much quoted information is in one place."

Volume 7, for example, contains the work of John Steinbeck, who won the award in 1962 for The Grapes of Wrath. The English are usually very candid, though expressing themselves in a genteel manner. All along the streets on Greenvor Square near the American Embassy, there are signs warning pedestrians to keep off the grass, allowing their pets the freedom which they sometimes might require. "Any person in charge of a dog which fouls the footway is liable for a fine of 20 pence." That's about $44 at the present rate of exchange, so if you take your dog with you to England, you may want to keep him away from such areas.

Another amusing sign on dogs which is indicative of British caution is found near the famous Druid monument, Stonehenge. (Stonehenge by the way presents an interesting juxtaposition of the ancient and the contemporary, insomuch as it is located at the juncture of two major roads in South-Central England, both virtually of freeway size.) At the end of a pedestrian tunnel under the highway is a sign bearing the admonition: "A well controlled dog is a pleasure. Please assist us in keeping pedestrians footways unobstructed."

As an afterthought, it would seem, a nearby sign insists "No pinicking on the monument."

So if you plan a trip to Jolly Old England, and do so if you can as it is a very exciting and interesting place, you probably would be well advised to leave your dog at home and watch out for those British words which you only think you know. Our national image in England could not stand any more Ruddi Co- lonia Mandorlais throwing trash in the gift bins.

Yoicks and Tally Ho, Lads, onward for the Queen and the Union Jack.

Library receives 20-volume Nobel literary prizewinners

Oral Roberts University library has received the 20-volume Nobel Prize Library of selected literary prizewinners from 1901 to 1970.

By the first week in February it will be available for student and staff use. The set includes biographical sketches, criticisms, and the presentation addresses and acceptance speeches at the time the Nobel Prize was given.

FIGLETS

Who really speaks English?

by dr. william morgan

A prime candidate for the "Thanks a lot Harry Award": Recently in London a chap who trades in the London coffee market made this startling discovery after a thirty day. He had just purchased a new car which was parked near his office. That day there had been an IRA bomb scare and the police had searched all the cars in the area for the location of the alleged bomb. When he could not be found to allow police entry to his car, the boy refused to go through smashing the windscreen. (That's British or windshield) Blinney?

Many Americans think they speak English only to find when visiting London that they speak American. The difference between the two versions of English often causes confusion, sometimes accompanied by amusement. Drifting one of my first trips to London, I was told to "quack" (pronounced "cuck"), and I didn't even see a good pool. Actually to quack up means to get in line and hence a quack is in line, usually of people.

A similar occurrence developed when we were looking for a place to deposit some trash in the middle of London. We saw a receptacle identified by the word "Grill." We assumed that this was merely the English way of saying rubbish or trash, and so we lifted the lid and quite fecklessly (that means fearlessly, sportfam) deposited our garbage. We noticed that several London denizens (or even those who live there) gave us a very evil eye. We later discovered to our chagrin that "Grill" meant sand which they use in the winter on slick streets.

"I say, George, look at those reddy Americans depositing rubbish in our Grill box. Very rude these Colonsids."

The English are usually very candid, though expressing themselves in a genteel manner. All along the streets on Greenvor Square near the American Embassy, there are signs warning pedestrians to keep off the grass, allowing their pets the freedom which they sometimes might require. "Any person in charge of a dog which fouls the footway is liable for a fine of 20 pence." That's about $44 at the present rate of exchange, so if you take your dog with you to England, you may want to keep him away from such areas.

Another amusing sign on dogs which is indicative of British caution is found near the famous Druid monument, Stonehenge. (Stonehenge by the way presents an interesting juxtaposition of the ancient and the contemporary, insomuch as it is located at the juncture of two major roads in South-Central England, both virtually of freeway size.) At the end of a pedestrian tunnel under the highway is a sign bearing the admonition: "A well controlled dog is a pleasure. Please assist us in keeping pedestrians footways unobstructed."

As an afterthought, it would seem, a nearby sign insists "No pinicking on the monument."

So if you plan a trip to Jolly Old England, and do so if you can as it is a very exciting and interesting place, you probably would be well advised to leave your dog at home and watch out for those British words which you only think you know. Our national image in England could not stand any more Ruddi Colonial Mandorlais throwing trash in the gift bins.

Yoicks and Tally Ho, Lads, onward for the Queen and the Union Jack.

Need to cash a check?

Crazy question? Not at all. And you don't have to be a captain of industry to be able to get a check cashed. You can do it by having a CHECKING ACCOUNT at Riverside National Bank.

So often you are taught without enough cash. We can eliminate your problem with a checking account, and bank hours to give you time to get cash. Our drive-in is open until 7 p.m. Monday through Friday and until 1 p.m. on Saturday.